Glenn Applauded During U.N. Tour

Astronaut Sees International Space Efforts

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. orbited the United Nations headquarters Friday to applause and cheers in half a dozen languages. Glenn and his family, six other U.S. astronauts and officials of the Mercury space project, and U.S. delegation chief Adlai E. Stevenson were guests at an informal reception given by Acting Secretary-General U. Thant.

Then they toured the U.N. buildings, escorted by Ralph J. Bunche, a U.N. undersecretary and the highest-ranking American in the U.N. secretariat.

Wife Refuses To Make Speech
They were greeted with standing ovations by secretariat employees, painters and plasterers in work clothes, and some general public tourists who were allowed to take part in the U.N. welcome, divided among half a dozen U.N. meeting halls.

There were screams of bravo and cheers in French, Russian, Chinese and in nonofficial languages as the excited multilingual staff responded to his grin and waves. There were cheers for Anna, his wife, who stood out in her flaming scarlet suit and who beamed back but who refused to make a speech when Glenn urged her to.

In his only formal statement of the day, Glenn said to be at the United Nations and "have all these tributes to our project and all the people that are working on it from people of this caliber is indeed overwhelming all over again" after New York City's massive ticker-tape parade for him.

International Teamwork
Glenn stressed that outer space flights are not only a national team effort but international as well. He ticked off some of the countries that helped mark the path of his orbital flights last month.

"As space science and space technology grows still further and our projects become more and more ambitious, we will be relying more and more on international teamwork," he said.

"And the natural center for that teamwork is the United Nations."

Chinese Reds Postpone Rally
LONDON (UPI)—Communist China Friday announced postponement of a national People's Congress scheduled to open in Peiping Monday as a rival to a similar Moscow meeting.

Diplomatic sources believe the move indicates Peiping is reluctant to force an immediate showdown with Moscow.

The Communist New China news agency announced that the Peiping rally — first of its kind in two years — has been put off until March 19. It gave no reason for the delay.

But diplomatic sources said the move appears to have been largely, if not exclusively, prompted by China's desire to gain time and await Moscow's next step in the Sino-Soviet ideological conflict.

The sources believe Mao Tse-tung and other Peiping leaders particularly wanted to see what decisions come out of the Moscow party Central Committee meeting which — by design or coincidence — also was scheduled for March 5.

The Moscow meeting ostensibly is designed to deal with the complex problems of Russian agriculture. But the Peiping-Moscow conflict is understood to rank high on the agenda.

Second Burma Coup Is Staged By Army Chief

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Gen. Ne Win and the army, apparently fearing Burma was about to swing hard to the left, seized control of the government again Friday, a bare two years after handing it back to the politicians.

Gen. Win, a stocky career officer with a volcanic temper, promptly named a new government composed of the same eight anti-Communists who helped him make Burmese clean up their garbage when he ruled from 1958 to 1960.

The swift coup was almost as bloodless as the army chief's first takeover of power in September 1958. The one casualty reported was the fatal wounding of the son of former President Sao Shwe Thaik by a stray bullet at Thaik's house.

This second coup obviously did not have the blessing of Premier U Nu as it did in 1958. Nu, one of the world's best-known Socialist-prone nationalists, former President Thaik and other government ministers were swiftly arrested by army squads which began the roundup with a visit to Nu's residence in a suburb about 2 a.m.

About 10,000 troops blocked all roads into the capital, surrounded the airport, appeared before police stations throughout the city, and seized key communications and transport facilities throughout the country. Air traffic to and from the country was canceled.

Gen. Win, an aggressive anti-Communist, then announced by radio that the army had taken control in order to save the nation from disintegration.

Smithsonian Gets Glenn Spacecraft

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Friendship 7 spacecraft which carried Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. around the earth three times in orbit Feb. 20 is destined for an honored place in the National Air Museum of the Smithsonian Institution.

This was disclosed Friday by James E. Webb, director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA). Webb said:

"It is a great pleasure to make this contribution to the museum which belongs to all of our people, because so many thousands of them had a part in this program, and many million took such great pride in its accomplishment."

The swift coup was almost as bloodless as the army chief's first takeover of power in September 1958. The one casualty reported was the fatal wounding of the son of former President Sao Shwe Thaik by a stray bullet at Thaik's house.

Five Moslems Slain Battling French Troops

ALGIERS (AP)—French troops fired on Moslems in two sections of Algiers Friday in furious reaction to the fatal stabbing of two soldiers by terrorists.

The squalid Casbah was the scene of an hour-long battle in which at least five Moslems were killed and eight wounded.

Red-capped Zouaves sealed off that storied Moslem quarter and went into action with gunfire and grenades against Arab snipers on the rooftops after a soldier carrying rations was stabbed to death.

French troops also shot at Moslems in another area, Clos Sablier. That was provoked by the killing of two Moslem auxiliaries, one of whom died. The toll of the shooting was not announced.

At least some civilian authorities were alarmed by what they described as the brutality of the troops' reaction.

"They went too far," a civilian official said grimly. "This is not a good sign for any future cooperation between the army and the rebels to enforce a cease-fire."

Police patrols were pulled out of the Casbah with the outbreak of the shooting there.

"Let the army do the job," headquarters radioed its units. The troops fired left and right and aloft as they moved through the slippery streets and narrow alleys of the district, home to 80,000 North Africans.

Steel Talks Halted Until After May 1

Negotiators Report Failure To Agree On New Contract

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Steel contract negotiators said Friday night they have been unable to come to any agreement on a new contract for the basic steel industry. The talks were recessed until sometime after May 1.

Following a brief night meeting on the 13th day of formal negotiations, the negotiators for each side issued statements announcing the breakoff.

R. Conrad Cooper, U.S. Steel vice president and chief negotiator for the 11 major steel companies, disclosed that the central question involved in the talks to date was employment security. He said:

"In the course of these discussions the union has presented a list of proposals which it regards as a minimum, but which in the opinion of the companies would so increase the heavy burden of employment costs as to impair seriously their competitive positions and thus to diminish, rather than expand, the employment security of the steelworkers," he said.

In his statement, United Steelworkers President David J. McDonald said that after more than two weeks of "earnest effort it has become evident that we have not been able to reach any understandings on either the economic or noneconomic issues which would be of prime importance in any final settlement."

The twin announcements dashed any hopes of an early settlement in the basic steel industry. Prior to the statements, there was some optimism that a basis for an agreement might be reached soon in line with a request by President Kennedy.

The President had appealed to both sides to make every effort to work out an agreement so that an economy-jarring build-up in steel inventories would be averted.

Radio Powered By Microbes

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Scientists Friday demonstrated a tiny broadcasting system powered by a test tube full of hard-working, specially trained, and all but immortal microbes.

All the microbes ask to keep them going, practically forever, is a steady supply of almost any kind of organic waste — garbage, sewage, sawdust, or even dead grasshoppers.

Given this sort of food and the necessary electrodes in a bath of conducting liquid such as seawater, the microbes will work ceaselessly to convert chemical energy directly and cheaply into electricity.

The broadcasting system, with a range of more than 15 miles, represents the first practical application of the so-called bioelectric fuel cell discovered by Dr. Frederick D. Siler, formerly with the geological survey here.

Batteries of pond-sized bioelectric cells stocked with the right strains of bacteria and fueled with anything from dead leaves to city sewage conceivably could supply all the electricity needed for great metropolitan areas.

More compact cells could be used to drive submarines, automobiles or tractors. Theoretically, the Atlantic and Pacific oceans could be linked to form a gigantic natural fuel cell capable of delivering unimaginable amounts of electricity.

Probers Seek Clues To Cause Of Air Disaster

Searchers Hunt Plane's Flight Record Device

NEW YORK (AP)—Icy tidal waters of Jamaica Bay shrouded any clue to the cause of an American Airlines jetliner crash Thursday that claimed the lives of all 95 persons aboard.

But searchers in the salt water and silt Friday were beginning to come across parts of the $5½-million Boeing 707 that may help unravel the mystery of the crash, worst disaster involving a single commercial aircraft in this country. Tides that raised and lowered the water level from waist depth to eight feet complicated the searchers' task.

Chief target of the search was the plane's flight recorder box, a steel globe the size of a basketball. It is designed to withstand the force of any crash, even the explosive plunge which smashed the jetliner to fragments.

Crashed On Takeoff

The recorder tapes data on the performance in flight of a jetliner — its speed, altitude and other operation information. It is the best hope of federal aviation investigators seeking a clue as to why American's flight No. 1 plunged nose-first to disaster less than three minutes after takeoff at 10:07 a.m. from Idlewild Airport for Los Angeles.

Parts of the plane being dredged from the muck of the bay may provide additional clues. Control devices in such sections as the tail, wings and cockpit of the aircraft have been found.

Thus far, however, there was no shred of evidence to back up various theories as to what caused the crash — theories such as a stall, motor failure, malfunction of controls and the like.

Plunged 700 Feet

The American jetliner took off smoothly Thursday from Idlewild and went into a left turn. It reached an altitude of about 700 feet, then suddenly plunged straight down into the shallow bay, disintegrating when it hit.

Among 87 passengers aboard the plane was W. Alton Jones, 71, a New York oil man en route to California to join his friend, former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, on a fishing expedition.

A briefcase identified as belonging to Jones, yielded $33,400 in cash, in bills from singles to $500, and $7,000 in travelers checks. Also retrieved from the wreckage was his wallet with more than $16,000 in cash.

Japan Asks JFK To Reconsider

TOKYO (AP)—Japan Saturday urged President Kennedy to reconsider his decision to resume nuclear tests in the atmosphere by late April unless an effective test ban treaty is reached with the Soviet Union.

Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda addressed a letter to Kennedy which said:

"It has been and continues to be the constant and earnest hope of Japan that the testing of nuclear weapons is never conducted whatever its reason may be."

Plan Assault On Peaks

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—A 15-member Burmese expedition will attempt to conquer one or more Himalayan peaks in September, officials report.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A bullet-fast B58 bomber will make a speed dash from Los Angeles to New York and back next week — trailing a sonic boom behind it all the way.

The Air Force hopes to cover the 4,900 miles in less than five hours, winning the Bendix Trophy and setting three continental records.

Storm Dumps 3 Feet Of Snow On Northwest

A late-winter storm Friday plastered the Northwest with up to 3 feet of snow, closed dozens of schools from the Pacific to the Rockies, and blocked transcontinental highway and rail travel in California's High Sierra.

Record-breaking loads of snow piled on a vast area of the Pacific northwest, northern California and the intermountain West.

Three feet of snow in 24 hours, and 50 mile an hour winds blocked U. S. 40 and 50 in California, held up the Southern Pacific Railroad's eastbound City of San Francisco and Overland passenger trains, and drove buses to refuge at a ski ranch near Donner Summit.

Fifteen inches of snow sufficed the Ashland area of southern Idaho, 14 inches hit Craters of the Moon and Gannett, Idaho, 11 inches fell at Port Angeles on Washington's strait of Juan de Fuca, and up to 8 inches blanketed western Montana.

The snow storm was blamed for at least three deaths in Washington. Schools closed at a dozen towns in Idaho.

Numbing cold tumbled temperatures to 34 below zero in Michigan and broke records in sections of the Northwest.

A warming trend brought welcome relief to frosted millions from the Great Lakes to the Central Rockies. Cold hung on in northern Montana, where it was 21 below at Cut Bank and 18 below at Havre.

Cold weather slowed flood waters in parts of Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee, but the rising Ohio River threatened to drive 6,000 persons from their homes outside a floodwall at Louisville, Ky.

Actor Is Rescued

ALICANTE, Spain (AP)—Spanish film actor Jorge Mistral was swept out to sea with an unnamed companion Thursday while testing an outboard boat motor, but was rescued at dark after drifting several hours, the civil guard announced.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A bullet-fast B58 bomber will make a speed dash from Los Angeles to New York and back next week — trailing a sonic boom behind it all the way.

The Air Force hopes to cover the 4,900 miles in less than five hours, winning the Bendix Trophy and setting three continental records.

Set For April Unless Soviet Accepts Ban

President Declares Security Demands Resumption Of Shots

By LEWIS GULICK
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy announced Friday night that the United States will go ahead with atomic tests in the air by the latter part of April, unless "a firm agreement" with the Soviet Union to halt nuclear blasts has been reached by then.

Kennedy made his long-awaited announcement in a nationwide, 30-minute radio and television speech.

The President coupled his notice of intent to go ahead with atmospheric shots—the first time for the United States since November 1958—with a promise to Soviet Premier Khrushchev of a summit meeting at Geneva if the Soviet Union should accept a test ban treaty in the first month of the 18-nation general disarmament talks, slated to start in the Swiss city March 14.

He pinned the choice directly on Khrushchev.

Tass Says Soviet To Rebuff JFK

MOSCOW Saturday (UPI)—The Soviet news agency Tass said today the Soviet Union will reject President Kennedy's offer of a nuclear test ban pact because it considers the American insistence on inspection "completely unacceptable."

"It is the leaders of the Soviet Union who must bear the heavy responsibility of choosing, in the weeks that lie ahead, whether we proceed with these (disarmament) steps—or proceed with new tests," Kennedy said.

Soviets Closing Atomic Gap
The President told the nation "in all candor," however, that last fall's Soviet test series, "in the absence of further Western progress, could well provide the Soviet Union with a nuclear attack and defense capability so powerful as to encourage aggressive designs."

Should the United States not protect its security by resuming atmospheric tests, Kennedy contended, the Soviets would see this as a sign of weakness and fear.

So by resuming tests, the President said, he hopes actually to strengthen peace prospects because the Red leaders will realize then "that the West will no longer stand still" while Russia tests.

Kennedy gave a detailed defense of his decision to resume tests in the wake of the Soviet action in breaking the atomic test moratorium last fall. Most of the modern U.S. missile arsenal relies on atomic warheads which have never been operationally tested. And weapons are searching for a breakthrough toward an antimissile missile to shoot down attacking intercontinental rockets.

Kennedy declared that U.S. security requirements, and those of the free world, demand that the United States proceed with its testing. At the same time, he blamed the Russians for U.S. resumption, deplored the step-up in the arms race, and declared that the Soviet Union has the power.

Decision Hailed By Legislators

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congressional reaction to President Kennedy's decision to resume atmospheric nuclear testing if Russia does not agree to a ban was prompt, loud and affirmative.

Both Democrats and Republicans hailed the decision as essential to free world security. Some GOP lawmakers said it should have been made sooner.

Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., said "It was a courageous decision and a sound one in the national interest."

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., said Kennedy had "walked the last mile and a little more in an attempt to come to a solid agreement, based on regulation and inspection, with the Soviet Union."

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill., said the President "has exercised his responsibility by his willingness to desist from further resumption of atmospheric testing if the Soviet Union actually signs a treaty with adequate inspection and safeguard."

"Civilization could require no more than this," Dirksen said.

Md. GOP Squabble Flares Over Slate

Devereux Denies Rinehart's Statement Committee Backs McKeldin-Led Ticket

BALTIMORE (AP)—Dr. Eldred Rinehart, chairman of the Maryland Republican State Central Committee, said Friday that the committee would support a slate of primary campaign candidates headed by former Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin for governor. Other committee members immediately denied the announcement.

Gen. James P. S. Devereux, vice chairman of the central committee and chairman of the 2nd Congressional District Committee, said a statewide slate of primary candidates was suggested, but no mention was made of supporting McKeldin.

"It was the consensus of those present that McKeldin would file for the gubernatorial candidacy Monday," Devereux said, "But that was all."

He said the meeting Friday was merely a gathering of state GOP leaders from the seven Congressional districts and Baltimore City, and was not a bona fide meeting of the central committee or the executive committee.

Devereux said it was the opinion of the group that McKeldin would file Monday. "If he does not," he said, "Rinehart will."

The vice chairman said the group "favored other members of the suggested slate" but had endorsed no one.

McKeldin, governor from 1951-59 was not immediately available to comment, but Rinehart said the former governor had indicated earlier in the week that he would seek the party's nomination.

Other candidates suggested were Edward T. Miller, former congressman from the Eastern Shore's 1st District, for the U.S.

Il Duce's Son Weds Actress' Sister Today

PREDAPPIO, Italy (UPI)—The international smart set assembled Friday night in this small native village of Fascist dictator Benito Mussolini on the eve of the wedding of Mussolini's son, Romano, and Maria Scicolone, sister of film star Sophia Loren.

The bride and groom traveled separately to the hillside village for the ceremony in a big red brick church Mussolini built in 1934 as a sentimental tribute to his home town.

Extraordinary police measures were taken to control thousands of expected visitors. The tempers of native villagers were short in the bustle of wedding preparations.

A motor van carrying 6,000 carnations for the wedding hit a motorcycle outside St. Anthony's Roman Catholic Church and the cyclist was hospitalized with serious injuries. Church attendants had to remove a large blood splotch from the square.

Many of the 1,300 invited guests were old Fascist cronies of Il Duce, slain by a Communist guerrilla band in the dying days of his reign. Most of Predappio's 8,000 residents are Communist voters now.

Miss Scicolone, 24, disclosed she and Romano, 33, plan a wedding trip that includes visits to San Remo on the Italian Riviera, Naples, and then to Mexico, where young Mussolini has some piano-playing engagements.

Miss Loren, one of Italy's most popular actresses and a current Hollywood academy award nominee, plans to attend the wedding although she and her husband, movie producer Carlo Ponti, risked arrest in coming to Italy.

In the eyes of Italian law, Ponti, who is divorced, and Miss Loren are not married.

Legislators Cool To Plea For Teacher Pay Raise

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Education officials made another request for a school teachers pay raise Friday to fiscal committees of the Maryland Legislature already prepared to turn them down.

The futility of the plea was reflected in an exchange between Del. A. Gordon Boone, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, and John Williams, president of the Council of P-T-A's of Prince Georges County.

Williams recalled that Gov. Tawes had promised in 1959 to boost the guaranteed state salary scale to $4,000-$8,000 but that repeated efforts, including mammoth petition drives, had failed to persuade the legislature.

"Our only recourse now is to go to the polls," said Williams. "I suggest you do that, sir," Boone snapped.

"We will," Williams replied.

Otherwise it was a polite, almost perfunctory hearing on a request that has been before the legislature repeatedly. Salary boosts for senior teachers were approved in 1960 and more aid for education was approved for counties last year, but not in the form of required pay increases.

Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., state superintendent of schools, said Maryland would never get quality education for all children until it narrowed the competitive gap for teachers existing between rich metropolitan areas and poorer counties.

"Starting salaries now are $3,800 in the lowest-paying county and $4,500 in the highest, a differential of $700," Dr. Pullen said.

The top salaries paid, he added, range from $5,800 in the lowest to $7,800 in the highest, a $2,000 differential.

The salary scale sought by teachers would distribute funds among counties on an equalization basis, with poorer counties getting more per teacher. Amounts of state aid would range from an average of $226 per teacher for wealthy Baltimore County to $320 per teacher in Calvert, the state's smallest.

Social Workers Urged To Back Family Courts

BALTIMORE (AP)—Social workers attending a three-day Child Welfare League conference in Baltimore were urged Friday to support creation of family relations courts under the Model Family Court Act.

William H. Sheridan, assistant director of the division of Juvenile Delinquency Services of the U. S. Department of Health, said the model act is now in effect in a dozen or more states in the nation.

He said the model Family Court Act moves cases of juvenile offenses, divorce, adoption, support, desertion and psychiatric cases to a new division on the circuit court level.

Baltimore County Judge John E. Rains, chairman of the Eastern Regional Conference of the Child Welfare League, said only Washington, Allegany, and Montgomery counties in Maryland do not handle juvenile cases in circuit courts.

The meeting is being attended by 800 delegates from six states, the District of Columbia, and the Virgin Islands.

Other speakers scheduled are Dr. George Devereux, a New York psychoanalyst, and Thomas J. S. Waxter, director of the Maryland State Department of Public Affairs.

The conference will close at noon Saturday.

Maryland News In Brief

BALTIMORE (AP)—Lewis C. Merryman, former U. S. commissioner on the Eastern Shore, pleaded no contest Friday on charges of failing to file federal income tax returns.

The 66-year-old Salisbury lawyer was accused of failing to file returns from 1954 to 1958. The government claims he earned $65,000 during that period.

BALTIMORE (AP)—Rabbi Yaakov Weinberg, dean of the Ner Israel Rabbinical College in Baltimore, will address the Atlantic Seaboard Regional Convention of the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of America here March 16-18.

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland 1961 death rate was the lowest ever recorded in the state, the State Health Department says. The provisional figures show the death rate declined from 8.9 per 1,000 population in 1960 to 8.6 last year.

BALTIMORE (AP)—Dr. Erwin H. Ackermann, professor and director of the department of medical history at the University of Zurich, Switzerland, will lecture on the aspects of the history of Therapeutics March 6-8 at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Museum of Art will feature four old masters in a special exhibit April 18. Paintings will include the works of Edouard Manet; Edgar Degas; Berthe Morisot; and Mary Cassatt.

Counterfeiters Given Prison Sentences

BALTIMORE (AP)—Two leaders of a counterfeit money ring were sentenced to five years in prison and fined $2,500 each Friday.

Five others, all convicted of passing $46,340 worth of fake $20 bills in late 1960, were given prison terms ranging up to three years.

Receiving the stiffer penalties were Francis A. Agresti, 38, of Silver Spring, and Dr. Carl E. Mucherino, 44, a Newark, N. J. chiropractor. Bail for Mucherino was set at $15,000 pending an appeal.

Others sentenced were Edward L. Wenzel, 49, Mount Ranier; his son, Carlton E. Wenzel, 28, Silver Spring; William F. Joyce, 34, Mount Ranier; Jerry L. Powell, 22, Valdesa, N. C., and Larry W. Powell, 23, Drexell, N. C.

Cigarette Sales Tax Exemption Move Defeated

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Maryland Senate killed Friday a bill which would have exempted cigarettes from the state sales tax.

Southern Maryland senators were defeated 17-11 in their effort to substitute the bill for an unfavorable report by the finance committee. The Senate then adopted the report by voice vote.

Majority Floor Leader James A. Pine, D-Balto County, said the $2.5 million loss in revenue from the exemption would "throw the budget out of focus and out of balance."

Backers of the bill argued that the state would gain more than this amount of money in increased sales.

Sen. John Thomas Parran, D-Charles, read statistics showing that sales increased in every state in this region last year except Maryland, which added 3 cents a pack for a uniform 6 cents a pack tax.

Parran said District of Columbia sales boomed 13 per cent higher, while Maryland sales declined 4.7 per cent.

Six Die In Two Maryland Fires

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP)—Two children, a 3-year-old boy and his sister, 2, died Friday in a fire that destroyed their four-room home on Allentown Road near Andrews Air Force Base.

The blaze was the second fatal house fire in the area in 24 hours. A father and his three sons died Friday night in their home at Bensenville, near Waldorf.

Friday's victims were identified as George Wilson, 3, and his sister, Karen, 2, the children of Mrs. Myrtle Wilson. Firemen said they were trapped in an upstairs bedroom.

A neighbor said Mrs. Wilson had to be dragged back from the blazing frame dwelling when she attempted to enter it to save the children.

The victims of the earlier fire were Edward L. Jones, 47, a research chemist at the Naval Research Laboratory in Washington, and his three sons, John, 12; Douglas, 5, and Mark, 9 months.

Feathers Held For Grand Jury

HAGERSTOWN (AP)—A 31-year-old Frederick meat cutter charged by two states with murder in the death of his wife, was ordered held Friday without bond for Washington County grand jury action.

He is Keith Feathers, whose wife, Mrs. Betty Jo Feathers, 28, was shot and killed Jan. 28. He appeared at a preliminary hearing before Magistrate John S. Holaday.

State Trooper Alfred Hedden testified Feathers told him the shooting took place near a State Roads Commission picnic grounds along State 340, not far from the Potomac River bridge in Washington County.

There had been some question about whether the shooting took place in Maryland or Virginia. A relative of Mrs. Feathers said the shooting took place outside her home in Winchester, Va.

Both states have charged Feathers with murder. The body of his wife was found in his car parked in Frederick. She had been shot five times.

The human race took some 200,000 years to reach its present total of three billion. If current trends continue unchanged there will be six billion people on earth by the year 2000.

Set For April

Talks And Tests

"In short," Kennedy said, "in the absence of a firm agreement that would halt nuclear tests by the latter part of April, we shall go ahead with our talks (at Geneva)—striving for some new avenue of agreement—but we shall also go ahead with our tests."

"If, on the other hand, the Soviet Union should accept such a treaty in the opening month of talks, that single step would be a monumental step toward peace—and both Prime Minister Macmillan and I would think it fitting to meet Chairman Khrushchev at Geneva to sign the final pact."

"It is our hope and prayer that these grim, unwelcome tests will never have to be made—that these deadly weapons will never have to be fired—and that our preparations for war will bring us the preservation of peace."

"Our foremost aim is the control of force, not the pursuit of force, in a world made safe for mankind."

The President concluded that, without the safeguard to American security of a nuclear test ban treaty with "detection and verification" controls to make it fully effective against any violations, the United States has no choice but to go ahead with the advancement of its atomic arsenal.

"Whatever the future brings," Kennedy said, "I am sworn to uphold and defend the freedom of the American people—and I intend to do whatever must be done to fulfill that solemn obligation."

"In the absence of a major shift in Soviet policies, no American president—responsible for the freedom and safety of so many people—could in good faith make any other decision."

The President said he had authorized the Atomic Energy Commission and the Defense Department to conduct a series of tests beginning in the latter part of April and ending "as quickly as possible." He said this should mean a period of two or three months.

Kennedy did not specify just what tests the United States would start off with and where, except to say they would "take place in the atmosphere over the Pacific Ocean."

JUSTUS J. GRABENSTEIN

Justus J. Grabenstein, 61, formerly of Algonquin Hotel, died Wednesday in Miami, Fla., where he was spending the winter.

Mr. Grabenstein was struck by an automobile February 8 and had been a patient in North Bay Hospital, Miami.

Born in Cumberland September 24, 1900, he was a son of the late Joseph and Mary (Stacer) Grabenstein.

He operated the Cumberland Liquor Store on Henderson Avenue until his retirement several years ago.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Margaret Schooley and Mrs. Mary E. Carolan, both of here; one brother, Richard Grabenstein, here, and two sisters, Sister Mary Justine, St. Francis Hospital, Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Emma Soethe, here.

The body will arrive at Stein Funeral Home this evening where friends will be received from 7 until 9 p. m. and from 2 until 4 and 7 until 9 p. m. tomorrow.

A requiem mass will be celebrated Monday at 9 a. m. at St. Peter and Paul Catholic Church. Burial will be in the parish cemetery.

MISS BESSIE CUNNINGHAM

MT. SAVAGE — Miss Bessie Cunningham, 89, died Thursday at the home of a niece, Miss Mary E. Murray, following an extended illness.

Born in Mt. Savage, she was a daughter of the late Patrick and Ann (Kelly) Cunningham. She was a member of St. Patrick's Catholic Church, the sodality of the parish, and a charter member of Court Theresa, Catholic Daughters of America.

Miss Murray is the only survivor.

A requiem mass will be celebrated Monday at 9 a. m. at St. Patrick's Church and interment will be in the parish cemetery.

The body will be at the residence after 1 p. m. today.

County Rejects Road Loan Plan

Commissioners John J. Rowan and Louis V. Shinnamon yesterday moved not to participate in a state loan program for roads after a letter from the state was received listing the county's allocation which is available.

Commissioner John T. Mason suggested that the matter be held open until April 1, the deadline for acceptance. He cited the possible need for funds in connection with the Pinto bridge project.

Both Rowan and Shinnamon said they did not want to place the county in a position of going into debt and that funds needed for the bridge project would be available. Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the board, said that even after the April 1 deadline the county could decide to participate from funds left in the program due to some counties not taking part in the plan.

NOAH PEABODY

MANN'S CHOICE, Pa. — Noah Peabody, 91, died yesterday at his home here.

A native of England, he was a son of the late Edward and Eliza Peabody. His wife, Laura (Tidy) Peabody, died in 1947.

Surviving are four children, Mrs. Homer Ritchey, Tallmadge, Ohio; Mrs. C. E. Myers, Orlando, Fla.; and Mrs. Myrtle Stouffer and George R. Peabody, both of here; four grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

The body will be at the residence after 2 p. m. tomorrow.

Services will be conducted there Tuesday at 2 p. m. by Rev. Richard Johnson and burial will be in Mt. Olivet Cemetery.

ERNEST W. LORAW

Ernest Wellington Loraw, 66, of Oldtown Road, died Thursday in Sacred Heart Hospital.

Born at Crellin, he was a son of the late David M. and Lula B. (Stansbury) Loraw. A retired coal miner, Mr. Loraw was a veteran of World War I and a member of Terra Alta (W. Va.) Lodge, L.O.O. Moose. He was a member of the Methodist Church.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Edith E. (Wolfe) Loraw, and a brother, Chester Loraw, Hopedmont, W. Va.

The body is at the George Funeral Home where friends will be received today from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p. m.

The body will be taken to the Bartlett Funeral Home in Grafton Sunday morning, where a service will be conducted Monday at 3 p. m. by Rev. Dr. Harry Mikels, pastor of West Main Street Methodist Church will officiate. Interment will be in Shays Chapel Cemetery.

County Approves Planning Budget

Approval was given yesterday for the budget of the Allegany County Planning and Zoning Commission in order to obtain federal aid.

Commissioners John T. Mason and Louis V. Shinnamon voted for approval and Commissioner John J. Rowan voted against. Rowan said he was against the budget as it now stands and he feels that the cost of the planning and zoning unit is unfair to the various incorporated communities.

Mason said these communities could take advantage of the county agency in planning and zoning. He also said that under the federal aid program the county would obtain substantial assistance at a cost more than a $1,000 less than if borne entirely by the county. The federal assistance provides for certain projects such as aerial mapping.

The latest wording of the Pledge to the American Flag was made in June, 1954, when Congress revised it to include the words "under God" to follow "nation."

Funds Given To Hospitals By ABL's

The Allegany Ballistics Laboratory Charities Fund Committee voted to donate $5,000 to five area hospitals and earmarked the money for specific equipment requested by each hospital.

Roy P. Salzer, Charities Fund chairman, said the money was realized through a contingent fund resulting from increased employment and a hike in employee donations. The ABL Fund has pledged $35,000 to the County United Fund for 1962, and the $5,000 is money collected over and above this pledge.

Members of the ABL committee earlier this month queried hospital officials to learn what equipment was needed by each. The donations will be distributed through CUF.

Miners Hospital, Frostburg, will purchase a dual defibrillator, heart massage equipment to be used chiefly in its emergency room, and a collimator attachment for its X-ray machine to protect patients from radiation.

Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, has directed its money for purchase of a new anesthesia machine, while Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, will purchase an "Isolette" infant incubator with a Vapolette supersaturation attachment.

At Romney, W. Va., Hampshire Memorial Hospital will purchase a records reproducing machine, an electric calculator and an office desk.

Because Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, W. Va., is a privately owned and operated facility, the ABL committee has made $1,000 available to the CUF Direct Services Committee for use to supplement hospital expenses of needy patients in the Keyser area.

Will Build Home

Gaither Martin, 950 Frederick Street, secured a permit from the City of Cumberland to build a one-story home at 943 Frederick Street. It will be 40 by 26 feet and of frame construction.

Firemen To Review Road Law

Action on spelling out penalties for automobiles that block highways and prevent movement of emergency fire vehicles is expected at the meeting Sunday of the Allegany-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association.

Spokesmen for the volunteer firemen report the law in effect specifies only that no automobile can follow a fire vehicle closer than 300 feet, and that none can park within that distance from where a fire truck is halted at the scene of a blaze.

The matter is expected to be directed to the attention of the association's legislative committee, spokesmen pointed out that there have been a number of instances where fire trucks have been halted by parked cars on highways whose drivers left the vehicles unattended while watching firefighting procedures.

The most recent occurred when a rural road near Mt. Savage was blocked and a $20,000 ranch-type home was leveled before two fire units could get to the scene.

The initial complaint was made by Joseph E. Durst Jr., chief of the Frostburg Department, who said the arrival of his company's equipment and some from Corri-ganville could have prevented the complete loss of the home and contents.

Four cars blocked the roadway, Chief Durst said, adding that one driver was charged with violation of Section 250 of the State Motor Code—that which applies to the 300-foot stipulation.

Pending more definite action, the area firefighters have issued an appeal that motorists and spectators make every effort to keep from blocking firemen in the pursuit of their duties.

To Meet Thursday

The monthly dinner meeting of the Women's Sport Club will be held March 8 at the Cumberland Country Club, beginning at 6:30. Mrs. Madelyn Rizer will preside. Mrs. Martha Gerkins is chairman of arrangements. She is being assisted by Mrs. Mabel Pierce and Miss Marian Hubbs, been invited to attend the service.

ABL Motors Help Boost Scout Rocket

Allegany Ballistics Laboratory rocket motors for the third and fourth stages figured in the successful firing of a Scout rocket at Wallops Island, Va., Thursday.

The third stage was the X-254 Antares rocket and the fourth stage was the X-248 Altair. This made the 44th consecutive firing for the Altair and the 12th of 14 for the Antares.

The Antares and Altair were designed, developed and manufactured at ABL.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the Scout rocket was fired into the skies to measure the kind of friction manned spacecraft would undergo upon returning from the moon.

The 72-foot, 36,000-pound Scout was to soar 135 miles high and about 800 miles downrange over the Atlantic in its suborbital flight.

It hurled a blunt-nosed payload down through the atmosphere at a speed of about 19,000 miles an hour. The payload was planned to splash at sea about 900 miles downrange from Wallops.

The planned re-entry speed was about 7,000 miles an hour slower than the speed to be attained by a capsule on its return to earth after a trip to the moon.

No attempt was made to recover the payload. Measurements of aerodynamic friction heating were to be made by radio signals during flight.

To Attend Service Tall Cedars Unit

Members of Algonquin Forest 140, Tall Cedars of Lebanon, will attend church services Sunday at 7 p. m. at First Methodist Church, 1707 Frederick Street.

Elwood R. Anderson, chairman of arrangements, said the unit will attend the service in conjunction with National Tall Cedar of Lebanon Week.

The Cumberland Cedarettes, being assisted by Mrs. Mabel Pierce and Miss Marian Hubbs, been invited to attend the service.

Jaycees Plan Telecasts Here On Americanism

The Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce plans a series of local telecasts in connection with its Americanism program, according to Frederick H. Hill president, who said the project will be inaugurated next Monday.

The telecasts will be made from the Irons Mountain studio of the Potomac Valley Television Company, with the programs slated for the 9-to-9:30 p. m. time period on Mondays.

The telecasts will be carried on PV-TV's Cable 6, according to Ronald J. Screen, chairman of the Americanism committee. He said the television series was adopted as a follow-up to the committee's highly-successful film, "Communist Encirclement—1961."

That film, Screen said, has been shown in all parts of Maryland, and presently is being exhibited in the Baltimore area. Bookings for the movie carry through the end of March, he stated.

The telecasts each will feature a 12-minute film under the general title, "The American Adventure," which is produced and distributed by the National Education Program, an organization that has received more Freedoms Foundation awards than any other institution or organization.

Following the film, Screen said a panel discussion on what has been shown will be aired by a group of students for the remainder of the time period.

All high schools in Allegany County have been invited to participate. Among those that have signed intentions to participate are Fort Hill, Allegany, LaSalle, Catholic Girls Central and Ursula.

Mrs. H. L. Tolson Named To Md. Medical Auxiliary

Mrs. Howard L. Tolson, president of the Allegany-Garrett County Medical Society Auxiliary, was named one of the three vice presidents of the state auxiliary, at the board meeting Monday. She and Mrs. Carlton Brinsfield, president-elect of the county group, attended the meeting and were guests of Mrs. Norman Oliver, Silver Spring, for a luncheon.

Other officers for next year are Mrs. Robert P. Conrad, Hagerstown, president; Mrs. Walter M. Hammett, Baldwin, president-elect; Mrs. Raymond Rangle, Baltimore, Mrs. John E. Baybutt, Easton and Mrs. McKendree Boye, South Central District, vice presidents. Mrs. Wallace Sadowsky, Perryville, recording secretary; Mrs. David Boyer, Hagerstown, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Emil G. Bauersfield, Chevy Chase, treasurer and Mrs. E. Rodney Shipley, Hanover, parliamentarian. Mrs. William S. Stone was chairman of the nominating committee. Branch presidents

Bonnie Vogel Wins Local Soroptimist Contest

Bonnie Vogel, Clarysville, student at Girls Central High School, was judged the local winner of the Soroptimist Club's national essay contest on "My Responsibility as a Citizen, in the Family, in the Community, and in the World." Mrs. Blanch Mantell, president of the local club, announces.

At the meeting of the club March 13 Mrs. Mantell will present her with a $25 government bond as the local prize, and Bonnie will read her winning essay, after Mrs. Thelma McElree, service objective chairman, reads the qualifications.

Mrs. Ridgeway said last evening that Bonnie's essay now will compete in the South Regional contest March 24 at Greensboro, S. C. If it wins there the local Soroptimist Club will give her the free trip to Greensboro and appropriate recognition. She then will have the opportunity to compete on the national level July 9 in San Francisco. At that time an award of $2,500 each will be given to two graduating seniors.

The citizenship contest is being sponsored by the Soroptimist International Association in conjunction with local clubs. The contestants must have taken an active part in service in the school and community, with a high degree of cooperation, courtesy and consideration of others, also have executed responsibilities with truthfulness, loyalty and punctuality; demonstrated ability to lead with self control, dignity and responsibility; and have pursued selected endeavors with sincerity and integrity.

The three runners-up are James Heavner of Fort Hill High School; Kathleen Sullivan and Judith Geiger of Ursuline Academy.

Other members of the service objectives committee, serving with Mrs. McElree, are Miss Jeanette Bonig and Miss May Tomlinson. Judges were Mrs. Mary Walsh, Dr. Lillian Compton and Mrs. Jack Yankelevitz.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 19 and life isn't worth living. Jerry and I went steady all through high school. It was real love, not the puppy variety. Then Jerry went to college. I went to work. Maybe that's where I made my big mistake. But I hated school and was relieved to be through with it. I couldn't wait to get out and make some money of my own and buy some decent clothes. Jerry has been away at college for a year and a half now. His letters are becoming colder and colder. When he was home for Christmas I talked about marriage. He talked about the army, more school and his responsibilities to his family. We didn't have much fun. It was mostly arguing. He has been dating society girls at school even though I have remained true to him. I am heartbroken. I know I am losing him and it's killing me. What can I do? — SLEEPLESS NIGHTS

DEAR SLEEPLESS: This is one of the big hazards of going steady all through high school. The more dependent member of the combination is especially vulnerable to heartbreak.

Face it, Chicken, Jerry's horizons have broadened and you have been left behind. Remove that "Reserved" sign from your neck (and from your heart) and make new friends. Jerry has long since done so.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The fellow I went with last year gave me a picture of himself in a 5 x 7 gold frame. When we broke up I packed the picture away in the attic.

Now I am going with another boy. Last week my ex-boy friend called and said he'd like to have his gold frame back.

It so happens that my present boy friend is giving me a 5 x 7 picture of himself for my birthday and I was planning on using the other guy's frame.

My boy friend says I should give the frame back and also the picture. I am willing to return the picture but I think the frame belongs to me. Right? — SOOEY

DEAR SOOEY: You will enjoy your present boy friend's picture more in a brand new frame. Return the picture and frame intact. You are entitled to keep it but since he asked, it's the ladylike thing to do.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Of course I can't ask anyone I know. Please give me some help. What should my daughter Maggie call her father's second wife? When my husband was going with this woman, he asked Maggie to call her by her first name. Now that they are married he says this is not proper. Both my former husband and his wife have asked Maggie to refer to her as "stepmother."

In my opinion this is not only incorrect but an insult to me. After all, I am still alive and in pretty good health. Can a child have a living mother and a living stepmother also?

I say she should call this woman by her first name and refer to her as "my father's new wife." What do YOU say? — OLD WIFE

DEAR OLD WIFE: I am not in favor of the adjective "old OR "new" in connection with a wife. It sounds as if you're talking about a broken-down sofa.

A second wife is a stepmother to her husband's children whether his first wife is living or dead. Your daughter should refer to this woman as "stepmother."

To learn the booby-traps of teenage drinking, write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teen-age Drinking," enclosing your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dr. Hashim To Address Alumnae

The Western Maryland-Memorial Alumnae Association will have a guest speaker and discuss plans for a dance at the regular meeting, which will be held March 8. The meeting has been postponed one day because of Ash Wednesday. It will be held at 7:45 in the nurses home.

Dr. Abdul Hashim, local pediatrician, will talk and show slides of Iraq. Members also will discuss plans for the spring dance, which will be held May 12 for the benefit of the project for the students.

The students have been invited to hear the speaker.

A social hour will follow.

Pearl Blair Is Chairman Of County Health Council

Officers were elected and plans for the installation formulated at the meeting of the Allegany County Lay Health Council conducted by Mrs. Mildred Bruce Thursday evening in the South Cumberland Health Clinic.

Mrs. Pearl Blair, Midland, was elected county chairman. Other officers elected to serve with her are Mrs. Elizabeth Nave, Cumberland, treasurer; Mrs. Violet Smith, South Cumberland, secretary. Mrs. Blair will select her own chairman after the installation.

The spring luncheon will be held May 22 at Anton's grill at the Fort Cumberland Hotel, with the luncheon served at 1 o'clock. At that time Mrs. Bruce will officiate at the installation of officers. Mrs. Bertha Scollick was named chairman of arrangements. Her committee consists of Mrs. Jean Cioni, Mrs. Betty Deter and Mrs. Patricia Kimmell. Mrs. Blake reported she is inviting Dr. W. Ross Cameron, health officer for Washington County, to be the guest speaker.

Final plans for the visit to the Luke paper mill were formulated. It is to be made April 3, with the tour starting at 1 p.m.

Concluding the meeting, a social hour was held and games played, with the South Cumberland Lay Health Group providing the prizes and refreshments. Mrs. Violet Smith was in charge of arrangements. Mrs. Maxine Squires made the cake and sandwiches, carrying out the Valentine motif in hearts and red napkins.

Secrets Of Charm by John Robert Powers

Toning And Reducing The Thighs

The inner thigh muscles especially suffer from lack of a daily workout, and even when thigh measurements are nearly perfect. To whittle down excess flesh at the inner thigh, repeat the following routine fifty to a hundred times daily: Sit on the floor with your legs straight and your hands resting on the floor behind your hips. Bend your knee slightly, keeping your left heel on the floor. Now, straighten your left leg a bit as you bend your right knee up as the left is bent. Alternate this bending and straightening as vigorously and quickly as you can so that the inner thighs brush. Under no circumstances let your knees slap the floor unless you also wish to reduce them.

Need I add that you should walk stretch and stoop at every opportunity?

Initiation Date Is Advanced

Announcement of a tie in the attendance contest was made by Mrs. Juanita Lease, chapter advisor, at the pledge service and formal business session of Iota Epsilon Chapter, Tau Phi Lambda, Supreme Forest Woodman Circle Thursday evening at the scout house. She also urged all members, particularly the past presidents, to memorize the required work to be eligible for the All Star honor roll.

Members voted to change the initiation from April 5 to the next regular meeting March 15. It is to be followed by the annual game night.

Mrs. Margaret Hartman, leader of the girl scout troop the sorority sponsors, asked for volunteers to help prepare the booth for the "Scout Arama" March 17. The pledge service was conducted for Mrs. Mary Dreyer and Miss Caroline Stevenson by Mrs. Dorothy Silber, pledge chairman and chapter vice president; with Mrs. Patricia Hunter, warden and Mrs. Jane Frederick, musician. Miss Juanita Prine was appointed pledge mother for Mrs. Dreyer and Miss Patricia Phillips for Miss Stevenson.

A formal business session was conducted by Mrs. Mary White. She introduced Mrs. Jean Shaffer, Route 1, Ridgeley, a transfer from Gratton, W. Va., to Iota Epsilon; and welcomed Mrs. Jane Brant Fryer, who returned from residing in Washington, back to the chapter. Routine reports were given by Mrs. Betty Ann Poland and Mrs. Joan Craze. Thank you notes were read from Mrs. Patricia Cowgill, a patient in the hospital; the Woodman Circle for a box received last January and the national office for the donation to "Dreams Come True" fund. A letter of congratulations from Mrs. Lena Alexander Shugart, national president, was read concerning joining the Golden Welfare Club 100 per cent. A report of 16 welfare hours contributed to the Crippled Children's League was made and members were urged not to neglect giving them to Mrs. Hazel White, chairwoman. Mrs. Anna Margaret Conley reported Mrs. Jeanne Lindner is a patient in Memorial Hospital.

Hostesses were Mrs. Shirley Calain, Miss Ann McCullough and Mrs. Gale Lambert. Others present were Miss Marjorie Crist, Miss Joan Lear and Mrs. Maxine Martin.

Albert C. Brant Sr., 912 Bedford Road, is a medical patient in Sacred Heart Hospital.

Mrs. and Mrs. Allan M. Sell, 523 Greene Street, leave tomorrow for Williamsport to attend the wedding of their granddaughter, Margaret Jane Crosby, to Timothy Bender.

Mrs. Pauline Sowers, Valley Road, was admitted as a medical patient in Memorial Hospital Thursday evening.

Allegany Saddle Club will meet Monday at 8 at the Baltimore Pike fire hall.

CDA To Meet

Court Cardinal Gibbons, CDA, will have its regular business and social meeting Monday at 8:15 in the Social Center.

All officers are requested to be present for rehearsal for the March 19 reception. It will be held following the meeting.

Student Nurse Week Committees Appointed

Committees for the observance of Student Nurse Week were appointed and plans for the state convention were discussed at the meeting of the Student Nurses Council of Memorial Hospital School of Nursing, conducted by Miss Rebecca Haines Wednesday evening at the nurses home.

The observance, April 9-16, will include a display in the lobby of the hospital depicting "The Role of the Student Nurse." The first day of the week all student nurses will wear red carnations, donated by Arthur H. Bopp. The second day there will be an early morning prayer service; the third a tea for nurses, alumnae and auxiliary members, sponsored by the council, and the fourth day an art, fashion and talent show, for friends, auxiliary members, nurses and employees of the hospital.

The convention in Annapolis will climax the week. It will be held April 13-14 and 15.

Miss Susan Miller is chairman of the lobby display. She is being assisted by Miss Dorothy Feters, Miss Mary Alice Shrock, Miss Lynn Horner and Miss May Brown. Miss Sandra Gurtler was named flower chairman. Her committee consists of Miss Shrock, Miss Constance Crissey and Miss Sandra Pauley Kessler.

The candlelight service April 10 from 6:15 until 6:30 a. m., will be conducted by Rev. F. G. Wanek, pastor of the Methodist circuit. The chapel committee consists of Miss Mary Dibert, Miss Janet Lohr and Miss Carol Logsdon.

A ticket committee for the art, talent and fashion show by the students is composed of Miss Judith Mangus, and Miss Janet Bechtel. The art committee consists of Miss Patricia Weir, Miss Lohr and Miss Frances Moser; talent program committee, Miss Bernice Boyle, Miss Constance Kelly, Miss Bonnie Shumaker, the group to the convention.

Miss Ann Allan, Miss Ann Harding, and the committee for the fashion show of Easter and spring fashions, is Miss Linda Loar, chairman. Miss Patricia McCray, Miss Linda Belt, Miss Nancy Chicchitto and Miss Charlotte McIntyre.

The committee for the welfare Easter basket is headed by Miss Catherine Barclay, assisted by Miss Norma Cover, Miss Boyle, Miss Loraine Smith, Miss Nancy Brooks and Miss Mary Ellen Aldrick.

Going by chartered bus to the convention, the students will register at Annapolis April 13. That day there will be interest group meetings and nomination for state elections. A talent show will be held that evening at 7:30. Saturday there is to be a business session and film. From 2 until 4 o'clock fall clothes and uniforms will be modeled at a fashion show. A formal dinner will be held that evening, followed at 8:30 by dancing with the midshipmen as guests of the students. Sunday church services will be attended at the academy. The closing ceremony of the convention will be at 1:30, and new officers will be announced. The girls will stay at Carvel Hall.

Memorial students are sponsoring an exhibit at Annapolis. Consisting of a booth by District 1, State Nurses Association, it will include pictures of Memorial and three other hospitals in the district. Miss Boyle's song, "District No. 1, State Nurses" will be sung. Mrs. Wilhelmina Shockey and Miss Martha Lena Irby, faculty advisors, will accompany the group to the convention.

County-Wide Service To Open 4-H Observance

In the quiet safety of her own home she is learning to pray, to trust in God. As she grows older she will learn that other people pray too; that other people have faith.

Sunday School will thrill her from the very first day, and her faith will grow as she learns more of the Heavenly Father's love. The Church, with its beautiful sanctuary, its inspiring music, its worshipful atmosphere, will give her a sense of reverence, of nearness to God.

As she grows, her love for the Church and for God will grow too. All through life the faith she learned when she was a tiny girl will provide a sanctuary and protect her during the many trials of life.

Are YOU helping YOUR child acquire this abiding faith?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor in the building of character and good citizenship. It is a safe (1) For the sake of his own soul, (2) For the sake of his community and nation, (3) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend church regularly and support the services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own soul, (2) For the sake of his community and nation, (3) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend church regularly and support the services regularly and support the Church.

Local Women Named Heirs In $160,650 Estate

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — An 82-year-old Springfield man and his 84-year-old sister, believed to have been destitute when they died earlier this year, left part of an estate of $160,650 to three Maryland women.

The Public Administrator for Illinois said among the heirs were Doris Twigg and Dorothy M. Kane, both of LaVale, and Gretchen C. Hebb of Cumberland.

George Gerbing died early in February after his sister, Anna, was found dead Jan. 27. Neighbors had frequently brought them food. The administrator said Gerbing's estate included approximately $56,000 in securities and about $23,000 in savings. His sister's estate included more than $31,000 in savings and almost $50,000 in securities.

An employee of the Cumberland Cement and Supply Company, he formerly worked for Celanese, for Consolidated Engineering during the building of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company plant, and for Tidewater-Hazelwood during the expansion program at the Luke mill of West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

Married, he is the father of six children, two of whom still live at home, and he has 13 grandchildren.

First Woman Files
Mrs. Kenney, the first woman to file for office in Allegany County this year, teaches a special class at LaVale Elementary School. This is her first political venture, but her husband, James P. Kenney, is campaigning for a third two-year term as water and light commissioner of Frostburg.

A graduate of Frostburg State Teachers College, she is the mother of six children, two attending LaSalle High School and four at St. Michael's School in Frostburg. Before the birth of her children she taught at Luke and in Prince George's County.

Mrs. Kenney is a past president of the Catholic Women's Organization of Frostburg, a member of the United Democratic Women's Club of Frostburg and the Allegany County United Democratic Women, treasurer of the County Council for Exceptional Children, member of the Allegany County Friends Aware of Handicapped Children, and of the Allegany County Teachers Association.

Mr. Birmingham, who is 50, has lived in Mt. Savage his entire life. He is employed in the assessor's department of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company. He is a trustee of the Mt. Savage Volunteer Fire Company, member of St. Patrick's Catholic Church, Mt. Savage, and of Local 26, Rubber Workers Union. Married, he is the father of six sons and also has two grandsons.

ABL, Union

Mr. Foster said, "I hope we will be able to reach a speedy and satisfactory settlement because the operation of ABL is vital to our nation's defense efforts."

ABL officials said the normal complement of non-union employees reported for work yesterday.

Sends Letter
In a letter sent yesterday to all employees, Mr. Foster said, "I firmly believe that the new contract which we offered the union on March 1 is a very generous one, that it will benefit all concerned."

The letter explained in detail the major changes that have been made in the contract, including the revisions agreed upon by the union at the negotiation session held March 1.

A complete copy of the company's proposed agreement including these revisions is attached to the letter.
He urged each employee to study the contract carefully in order to make a reasonable and intelligent judgment on the sole remaining issue.

Wiley Ford Couple Hurt In Collision

A Wiley Ford couple were treated at Memorial Hospital yesterday afternoon for minor injuries they received in a car-truck collision on Route 28 near Ridgeley.

James Taylor, 48, was treated for a scalp laceration. His wife, Clara E. Taylor, received a possible fractured nose.

The accident occurred as the Taylor car collided with a small pickup truck just outside the limits of Ridgeley.

Scouts To Make Canoe Trip

A group of Explorer Scouts from Post 10, sponsored by LaVale Methodist Church, plan a canoe trip today from near Elerslie to Oldtown.

The youths plan to launch their trip about 7:30 a. m. near Elerslie and proceed down Wills Creek to Cumberland and then on to Oldtown along the Potomac River.

Planning to make the trip in two canoes are John Eyer, David Whitworth, Roger Lowery and Richard Johnson. They will be accompanied by Kenneth Moreland, an adult leader.

Teacher On U. S. Program

A former local woman who taught for 10 years at Carver High School has achieved unusual distinction in a project conducted by the United States Information Agency.

Miss Mary E. Reed, teacher of social studies at Carver from 1947 to 1957, became "e subject early last fall of a USIA undertaking in its "Profile of an American" series, used in Voice of America programs.

A tape recording of a script based solely on Miss Reed's activities as a school teacher has been used abroad by USIA in its efforts to depict for listeners in foreign lands some aspects of life in America.

Currently a member of the Pimlico Junior High School faculty in Baltimore, Miss Reed taped her interview program at her Baltimore home, and in the classroom.

The title of her script was "The Most Popular Profession," a description of teaching in an American public school, and the tasks teaching entails, both at home and in school.

County Opposes Measure

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners took action yesterday in connection with two legislative measures in the General Assembly.

Members of the board went on record as being opposed to Senate Bill 97 which would provide for any persons convicted of or a violation of a domestic relations type law such as paternity or non-support be incarcerated in the county jail.

If the county jail were filled the prisoners would be sent to the House of Correction with the county made responsible for payment of their incarceration. The county would also have to bear the cost while they were in the county lockup.

The commissioners are in support of five measures which affect the operation of Civil Defense during national emergencies. These measures concern the continuity of the government at the county level and also the financing of any rehabilitation of property which may become necessary.

These five CD measures have the general support of the State Association of County Commissioners.

A Labor Leader Shows The Way

Labor leaders do not often tell their union members, publicly and in strong terms, that they must be more realistic and more reasonable in dealing with their employers. The remarks of Wesley Cook at a special meeting of Local 1874 of the Textile Workers Union of America here Thursday night are therefore worthy of note.

Mr. Cook, who is vice president and synthetic yarn director of the TWUA, told local members they are going to have to make some changes in their approach in order to protect their own future at Celanese Fibers Company's Amcelle plant. To do so, he said, means to avoid the type of incidents that have sometimes occurred at the local plant, and to work instead to help keep the plant in a competitive position in the industry.

The textile industry, represented by plants in every corner of the United States, is one of the most competitive and cost-ridden in the American economy. High costs led many textile manufacturers to abandon their traditional New England locations many years ago and head south or west to develop flourishing new industries. Some of their problems followed them when they moved. Foreign competition, which shows signs of becoming even stronger, has only added to their problems.

Many plants, as Mr. Cook pointed out, have closed down because they couldn't stay in a profit-making position. If it happened elsewhere, obviously it could happen here. "We have to change for our own preservation," said Mr. Cook, and he couldn't have said it better.

Mr. Cook's speech here, delivered to union members who work at the parent plant of the Celanese Corporation of America, is a striking and encouraging example of responsible union leadership. It merits the serious consideration of every worker, whether at Amcelle or elsewhere.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

America, Go!

It was thrilling to hear, at long last, an American stand before the Congress and speak in unmistakable patriotic language:

"I am glad to see that pride in our country and its accomplishments is not a thing of the past."

This man, John Glenn, who had risked his life for his country in two wars and who flew through the heavens to nail the American flag to a star, did not and-if-or-but about his love of country.

Thousands of children lined the streets in Washington with signs bearing the slogan, "Go!" and it is this stimulant that the country has been needing for a long time, ever since we went so international during World War II that we forgot that to be international, it is essential first to be national. Patriotism was killed along with the marching band as the men sailed away for World War II and the Korean War. We could not offend our Allies!

But here steps forward a daring man who says: "I still get a hard-to-define feeling inside when the flag goes by and I know you do, too. Today, as I rode up Pennsylvania Avenue from the White House, and saw the tremendous outpouring of feeling on the part of so many thousands of people, I got that same feeling."

There can be no question but the past 30 years have been spiritually deadening. Ardently those who propagandized for friend and foe lessened the enthusiasm for our own country. It was curious to watch the sharp change of attitude in the 1930's. Before the Great Depression, this was "God's own country," and anyone who failed to understand that was as likely as not to get a bloody nose. Then the guts went out of the nation and a generation approached life hopelessly, acting as though the sole value of our country is to provide money, not life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness which is opportunity to be productive.

And after that came the horrible 30's and 40's when the European and Asiatic propagandists labored to destroy the spirit of our people, when text books were rewritten and American history and literature disappeared from high school and college curriculums; when men and women signed petitions denouncing their own country.

Spies appeared in our midst and as surprising as it may seem, there were those who came to their defense and justified their actions on grounds of "higher morality." Even when our courts convicted those who served a foreign country, there were those who criticized the courts not the spies and cheats. This attitude was not limited to Communists or even to fellow-travelers, for there were all sorts of Americans who could condone the betrayal of country or even, in a way, partake of such activities and plead that they could not tell the truth lest they indict themselves of criminal acts.

A younger generation inevitably appeared which had to go to yet another war, the Korean War, and to them it all seemed meaningless and futile as a war without victory must be. Their lives were interfered with, their careers disturbed, their marriages postponed. They lived their young lives with the draft hovering over them and with unanticipated uncertainties facing them. And they learned to count their earnings in terms of tax deductions until they realized that "equality of opportunity" is not what they were told that it might be.

It seemed for a while to be a cold generation, specializing in vocational subjects, hard-boiled in their relationship to each other. Sentiment seemed to be ruled out and ideals and aspirations seemed hopeless dreams.

Then came another turn—the Conservative Revolt on the campuses, a revivalist movement in many respects, small but articulate, undirected but idealistic. This was but an indication that youth cannot long be frigid, it must find excitement and fervor and faith. To say that the small Conservative movement meant all that is to exaggerate, but it is symbolic and indicative. The essence of the Conservative movement is a restoration of patriotism, a firming up of a belief in the destiny of our own country and its civilization.

A new tone or rather an echoing bugle call was uttered by the astronaut. There he stood, not a politician, but an explorer of a new world warning us not to forget our motherland, as he, did not forget his.

Scraps

Labor Leaders Are In Tight Political Spot

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Strange news items are appearing these days — as, for instance, reports that the AFL-CIO is voicing criticism of President Kennedy and is predicting a "Kennedy recession" if he doesn't soon put through a program to pep up the nation's economy.

Such criticism can be misunderstood as meaning a break between labor and the administration which it helped so effectively at the polls in the last Presidential election. The truth is that something deeper is involved.

For the all-important fact is that labor-union leaders are coming face-to-face with reality and are looking for a scapegoat on whom to blame their expected inability to get hereafter unlimited increases in wages and benefits for their members.

Labor-Union leaders are adept as politicians. They must run for office periodically, and in the larger unions this is tantamount to running for Congress or for any other high office in public life. The candidate has to prove constantly that he is getting the maximum for his constituents.

The facts, however, are piling up against the labor-union politicians. The leaders are confronted with a simple truth — American businesses face stiff competition from abroad, where wage costs are lower. In the not-far-distant future the United States is to reduce tariffs. Goods are to come in from the European Common Market countries in large quantities. How can a high level of employment be maintained when that happens? It isn't enough to rely on "retraining" programs. Something more fundamental has to be done in labor-management relations.

So it's probably an easy way out for labor leaders to begin blaming the administration for not creating more public-works programs and for failing to stimulate employment artificially in other ways. This, however, isn't going to be the permanent answer, and the labor-union leaders and economists are slowly beginning to realize it.

A new era in labor-management relations has been opened up as a result of world conditions. British labor organizations in the last several years have had to face similar crises and adapt themselves to various self-restraints while "austerity" programs were carried out by the government.

It is something novel and unfamiliar, however, to American labor leaders to conform to any pattern of restriction in wage increases. They resent and dislike heartily the recommendations of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, which recently offered certain "guidelines" on "productivity." Its suggestion that maybe labor and management and the consumer public should all share in the benefits of "productivity" hasn't been well received by labor, which seems to feel that it should not be restricted in any effort to obtain the maximum of productivity's benefits, even if shareholders get nothing, and if the public has to bear increased prices instead of benefiting from lower prices.

Incidentally, the steel negotiations are being watched carefully by the labor leaders in other industries. Already they don't like what they hear. They don't relish governmental intervention at all. They are inclined to voice criticism publicly and privately of the role played by Secretary of Labor Arthur Goldberg. He, however, is doing what the President wants him to do — trying to avert a steel strike. The Secretary cannot help it if he has to take a course which he never would have supported had he remained as general counsel of the Steelworkers Union.

The labor leaders have expected Mr. Goldberg to become their

Klan Gets Into Fight Against U.N. Bonds, Threatens Sparkman, Hill

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The Ku Klux Klan has got into the act against the United Nations $100,000,000 bond issue and has been pressuring Alabama's Senators to vote against it. The reaction of the two Senators has been diametrically opposite.

Sen. John Sparkman of Huntsville has ignored the Klan and is standing with President Kennedy for the U.N. Sen. Lister Hill of Montgomery has agreed with the Klan and wrote it a letter signed "with kindest regards and best wishes." His office says he had taken this view before the Klan got into the act.

The Klan's letter to Lister Hill was signed by Robert Shelton, imperial wizard of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, now wizard of the United Klans of America. Shelton is the same Klansman who was embraced by Charles Meriwether whom Kennedy appointed a director of the Export-Import Bank. Both Sparkman and Hill voted for Meriwether's confirmation.

What touched off the Klan fracas was Senator Sparkman's support of the U.N. bond issue. When he stood up for Kennedy and the U.N., Shelton began stirring up the Klansmen in Alabama against him. This began the first week in January.

On January 6, Senator Hill came out publicly against buying bonds to bail out the indebted U.N. When queried by this column, his office claimed that the Senator had no idea, when he made the statement, that the Klan was behind the anti-bond campaign.

Later, the imperial wizard fired off his letter threatening Sparkman at the polls for his stand on the bond issue.

"Based upon your left-wing voting record, so Communist inspired," wrote Shelton, "There seems little hope of the leopard's changing its spots."

"But we can assure you that the Klan will successfully bag the man-eater, in your next try at the polls, and render him powerless to continue killing this nation."

Copies were mailed to the two Alabama Senators from the Klan's Tuscaloosa, Ala., headquarters. The Klan letterhead could not be mistaken. Senator Hill has chalked up a notable record for better hospitals, and better health in the USA. He is able to read.

Sparkman, the target of the attack, paid no attention to the Klan. But Hill gets nervous over the rustle of the bed sheets.

"I want to thank you," he replied, "for sending me the copy of your letter to Senator Sparkman. As you may know, I have already stated that I oppose the proposal to purchase $100,000,000 worth of United Nations bonds, and I intend to vote against it. With kindest regards and all good wishes."

Note — A disarmingly small, mild man for an imperial wizard, Shelton quarreled with the Rev. Alvin Horn for Klan leadership a few years ago and eventually set up his own outfit which he called the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan. He later changed the name to United Klans of America in order to give it national scope.

Headlines And Footnotes
Jim Hagerty, the new ABC network mogul, pulled a ten strike when he hired Howard K. Smith after CBS fired him. Smith has been getting off some of the most virile comment of any commentator on TV — in fact, the only one who really gets to the bottom of things in Washington. . . . Sam Devine, the GOP Congressman from Ohio, with three daughters, plus a wife, says "family considerations forced me to enter politics — I couldn't get a word in edgewise at home." . . . anti-education lobbyists who point to the fact that Abe Lincoln was educated without federal aid find it convenient to overlook the fact that the public schools of Illinois which Lincoln attended were supported by the sale of federally owned land. Lincoln also signed the Merrill Act, July 2, 1862, a federal-aid-to-schools law, previously vetoed by President Buchanan. . . . Sen. Herman Tamm, the cagey Georgian, told an Atlanta audience the other day how organized minorities tried to make Congressmen "kneel and buckle under." In the next breath he told Georgians how a minority of 18 or 19 Senators was able to filibuster civil rights legislation to defeat. . . . President Kennedy moved with lightning speed when Sen. Bill Fulbright of Arkansas asked him to investigate reports that Camp Chaffee in Arkansas was being closed by the Pentagon. JFK, who wants Fulbright re-elected, immediately authorized a statement that Chaffee would be kept open. . . . Bill Thatcher, who operates a big grain elevator as part of the Farmers' Union in Minnesota, is out of step with the rank and file of his own farmers. They oppose the re-election of Sen. Milt Young of North Dakota, whom Thatcher is supporting.

Parking Privilege

The nation's capital is like all other large cities in at least one respect. A sure way to get a traffic ticket is to park in front of a fire hydrant. The standard assessment or collateral for this infraction is $5.

Influence usually will not help the offender. Whether he be a Senator, a Congressman, a Cabinet officer or just an ordinary citizen, the chances are his automobile will be tagged.

In fact, only one individual has been able consistently to get away with it in the entire history of the Washington Police Department. This lucky person was Alla Clary, personal secretary to the late Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas. The much-loved "Miss Clary" parked her car every day in front of a fire hydrant during the many years she worked for Rayburn — without ever getting a ticket.

This parking space, near the East Front steps leading into the House side of the Capitol, was assigned for her personal use by the House sergeant-at-arms. So Miss Clary always parked there, fire-plugs or no.

Now that she has retired and Speaker Rayburn is dead, however, there is a large red and white sign at the place where Miss Clary's car used to stand. It reads: "No Parking at Any Time."

The New Celebrities

By John Crosby

MEXICO CITY

Back when I was a boy, the greatest celebrities the world ever knew or ever were likely to know were people like Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, Roldolph Valentino (is there a man now alive who remembers that famous date and year?). Silent screen stars were the most recognized, most acclaimed individuals in Bangkok as well as Buenos Aires and lower Ceylon.

Today, you know who's big in Buenos Aires? "Bat Masterson," for God's sake. You want to know who'd get mobbed if he walked down the street in Mexico City? Gregory Peck? My dear fellow, if Gregory Peck walked down the street, some of the bolder grandmothers might ask for his autograph. There'd be no commotion, no screaming, no whistling, no police lines.

But things would be much different if Mike Connors walked down the street. You don't know who Mike Connors is? Well, as a matter of fact, neither did I until someone jogged my memory. Mike Connors is the star of "Tightrope," an ill-fated television show that has long since faded from American TV screens, and never caused much fuss at any time. But in Mexico City, Mike Connors is the biggest thing since the Good Neighbor Policy. At least with the teen-agers who mobbed him at the airport.

"Tightrope" has been shown locally, not once but five or six times. Don't ask me why. That's the way things are. All over the world the worst of American television is occupying the best time on local television screens. In Lima, Peru, it's "77 Sunset Strip" and "Naked City." You find "Highway Patrol," a real stinker, all over the place.

What has emerged from all this is a new international television star who is destined to eclipse the old-fashioned movie star in the sheer candlepower of public admiration by an unimaginable margin. For instance, Sinatra was in Mexico City a couple of months before Connors and caused nothing like the commotion Connors did. The teen-agers literally swooned over Connors, while Sinatra got some head-turning from the grandmother set.

Connors filled two nightclubs and a vaudeville theater with screaming teen-agers before whom he gave what may be the weakest act in the history of show business. He pulled his gun, he tried some jokes in Spanish, despite two grave handicaps. One grave handicap: he can't speak Spanish. Second grave handicap: he can't tell jokes. The teen-agers loved him anyway, and when asked why, they said: "Que quapos!" (How handsome!)

The same kind of adoration engulfed Raymond Burr (Perry Mason) in Stockholm, Alfred Hitchcock in Tokyo, and Gene Barry (Bat Masterson) in Buenos Aires. These are the new international stars and they are much bigger than Ingrid Bergman—at least in commotion value, in the ability to stir up riots at airports and screaming in the streets.

Don't get the idea that these characters are universally beloved. They aren't. The parents and frequently the authorities hate these TV idols as much as the teen-agers adore them.

Newspapers and parents attacked the TV shows on much the same ground they are attacked in the United States; namely, they promote violence, they foster false values and all that. But with the added twist down here that they are fostering gringo false values which makes it much worse. The Argentines are particularly outraged by the popularity of gringo cowboy TV shows. For hundreds of years, the traditional hero of Argentina has been the gaucho with his floppy pants and wide belt and flat hat. Now the Argentine kids want to dress like gringo cowboys—tight blue-jeans and a hat like the cowboys wear in "Wagon Train."

"Siempre," a leftist magazine here in Mexico City, harumphed recently that Mexican children were being warped by a constant diet of homicides and gringo homicides at that, which, of course, is the worst kind. And why idolize Americans when any decent Mexican should know that Americans were villains, not heroes.

Mike Hammer, another local and incomprehensible enthusiasm on television, practically revolutionized the men's clothing industry in Mexico City. He introduced the three-button suit. Since Mike Hammer was the very last word in virility on TV screens at the moment, it followed logically (Latin American logic, that is) that anyone who did not wear a three-button suit was—well, not quite as masculine as he ought to be. There was a rush to three-button suits, where they had been almost unknown here up to that time.

There hasn't been an explosion in men's wear like that since Clark Gable wrecked the undershirt business by appearing without one in "It Happened One Night," many years ago. And it shows which way the wind is blowing. The television screen is setting the style in men's clothing and in homicide, not the movie screen.

Keep Toddlers Away From Heating Appliances

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many children are burned every year because they have not learned to fear heat or are fascinated by matches and fire. It is a difficult problem at best because furnaces, heaters, fireplaces, and stoves are here to stay.

Parents ought to place matches out of sight and keep toddlers away from hot appliances. Meanwhile, mother and father should cross their fingers and hope for the best.

The floor type heater was responsible for burns received by nine children in Atlanta, Ga. The heater consists of a gas furnace set immediately below the floor and covered with a floor level grating. Many are placed out of the usual line of traffic but others are so situated they must be stepped on to go from one room to another.

The grill becomes hot after the heater is turned on and tots are not always steady on their feet. These youngsters, according to Dr. Julian A. Waller, were burned on their legs, fingers, hands, thighs, feet, or buttocks. They crawled onto, touched, walked on, sat on, fell into, or were pushed onto the grate. Attempts are being made to improve this type of heating system.

Many burns are sustained in homes with conventional heating. A 9 month old toddler tried to stand up next to the hot oven of the kitchen stove. She braced herself with one hand on the door and the result was a burn of the entire palm and fingers.

Another child stumbled and raised his arm to avoid a hot steam radiator. The hand got stuck between the rungs of the radiator, which burned the palm and back of the hand. A 2 year old grabbed the handle of a frying pan containing boiling grease. He was lucky because only a few drops splattered on his arm and chin. Accidents of this nature could happen every day in most homes.

Places the burned part in cold or ice water to relieve distress. Then call the physician or take the child directly to the hospital emergency room.

Try And Ston Me

By Bennett Cerf

Professional comedians rarely appreciate each others' talents, but George Burns, of Burns and Allen, and Jack Benny are notable exceptions to the rule. Not only have they been fast friends for thirty-odd years, but Burns can break Benny up by merely sticking his tongue out at him. Benny calls Burns up from all corners of the globe just to gab with him, and keeps yakking so long that Burns usually ends up by hanging out on him.

Benny, in fact, now counts on this so that one day in Hollywood he told an agent named Rubin, "I'm calling George Burns in Chicago in ten minutes and I'll bet you $25 he hangs up on me." Rubin accepted the bet. When Benny got on the wire, their usual kidding, desultory conversation ensued. Finally Benny, sounding puzzled, said, "Well, George, aren't you going to hang up on me in your usual insulting fashion?"

"I certainly am not," declared Burns, then added, "and by the way, Rubin called and gave me half of his bet."

Fire Damages Thomas Home At Moscow

MOSCOW — Fire of undetermined origin damaged the kitchen and living room of the home of George Thomas, Moscow, who is employed in Baltimore.

Thirteen members of the Barton Volunteer Fire Company went to the scene shortly after 8 p. m. Thursday and remained there until 9:30. No one was injured.

Thomas' mother and his 14-year-old son, who reside in the insured frame dwelling, were not at home when the blaze was discovered. Furniture in the two rooms involved was damaged by fire, water and smoke.

Fire Chief Hammel Snyder said he experienced no difficulty from motorists and spectators at the scene. He noted that there was no "fire truck chasing" as in past alarms, and roadways were open at all times.

Snyder said he is investigating to determine the cause of the fire. Meanwhile, Mrs. Thomas and her grandson are residing temporarily with Mr. and Mrs. William Baer, Moscow.

Swadley Outlines For Kiwanis Club Top-Level Policies Of W. Va. Education

KEYSER — "West Virginia University must continue to maintain its academic freedom and integrity as the apex of the higher education system in the state," according to James H. Swadley Jr., vice-president of the board of governors.

Swadley was guest speaker at the weekly dinner-meeting of the Kiwanis Club Wednesday in Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church.

Basing his views on recommendations made to the State Legislature by the governor's committee on higher education, of which he is a member, Swadley said there is definitely a need for coordination between the various colleges and universities of the state but that the single governing board idea, as proposed by some, does not appear to be the answer.

He commented on the natural and human resources of the south pointing out that only the best of each can be achieved through higher education of the finest quality. He said that many have termed the progress of WVU during the past 10 years as phenomenal... showing the greatest advances made by any state universities in the land during the 1950's. "And the remarkable thing about it," Swadley said, "is that this surge was accomplished with limited resources."

"Still greater strides can be seen in the future if our friends and patrons respond... and the extension of these resources will also reach Potomac State, a branch of the University, as well as other junior colleges."

Swadley said the University, which recently marked its 95th birthday, is happy with the "cooperation between the institution and the state administration which has done much, as best it can, to make available funds for the advancement of higher education. And the University is interested in the progress of Potomac State as the junior college program is regarded highly important today."

During the recent session of the legislature the governor's committee recommended that a six-member commission of higher education be named, giving legal status to the presently functioning of the board of governors and the state board of education. Three members would be selected from each group and they would be served by a professional staff.

This commission would not govern the individual schools but would coordinate the whole higher education complex, its activities, eliminating duplication of facilities and services, recommending changes in curricula at the most economical cost. It would also receive budgets for KEYSER—Dr. Clinton L. (Bud) Rogers, who has been practicing medicine here since last fall, has closed his office and practice to enter the U. S. Air Force.

Clinical records and business matters will be handled by his father, Atty. N. Howard Rogers at the Law Building or by Mrs. Kelly Lowry. Dr. Rogers plans to resume his practice here in about two years.

4-H Girls Plan Window Display

FROSTBURG—The Senior Girls 4-H Club met a recent evening in the Frostburg Library with Beth Muir, vice-president, in charge. Group singing was led by Dana Gay Harden.

During the business session, it was announced that "county fees" are due now. Plans were also made to attend a vesper service at Cresapton Baptist Church, Sunday at 7:30 p. m. Several members will participate in the choir with a practice being held today at 1:30 p. m. at the church.

This is part of a program in conjunction with National 4-H Week being held March 3-10. Participating in the choir will be Ivah Shope, Phyllis Shope, Sandra Dishong, Cora Lynn McFarland, Cathy Davis, Helen Morgan, Beth Muir, Jane Babcock, Danagay Harden and Donna Plummer.

During National 4-H Week, a window display will be in the Durst Company building, with Eileen Morgan as chairman assisted by Kay Frances Morgan, Claudette Ward, Ivah Shope and Cathy Davis.

The next meeting will be held March 12 at the Potomac Edison Company demonstration room with Miss Katherine Close preparing the menu.

Reservations At W. Va. Parks In Big Demand

Much Interest In Vacations

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginians planning to spend their summer vacations at one of the state parks or forests were advised Friday that reservations are going like hot cakes.

Velma H. LeRoy, reservations clerk for the State Department of Natural Resources said the early demand for cabin reservations this year is greater than ever.

The demand so far, she said, is running about 25 per cent ahead of last year, leading the department to believe that West Virginia parks and forests are headed for another record season.

Last year, West Virginia's 20 parks were visited by more than 2.08 million tourists including those who stayed in cabins available at eight parks — Babcock, Blackwater Falls, Bluestone, Cacapon, Holly River, Lost River, Tygart Lake and Watoga.

In addition to the cabins, West Virginia also has modern lodges available at Blackwater Falls, Davis, Tucker County, Cacapon, Berkeley Springs, and Mont Chateau, near Morgantown.

Already, all 25 two three and four-person deluxe cabins at Blackwater Falls State Park are taken between June 19 and Sept. 2—the peak summer period. And many at Cacapon, Lost River and Watoga also are taken during the same summer period.

Still open for grabs are 26 cabins at Babcock, 25 at Bluestone and several of the eight deluxe and 26 standard cabins at Watoga.

All of the cabins at the four state forests are still open from April 27 to Nov. 1. They are Cabwilling, Wayne County, Greenbrier in Greenbrier County; Kumbrow, Randolph County and Seneca, Pocahontas County.

The price range for the cabins is from $26 a week for a two-person at Kumbrow, Seneca and Cabwilling to $108 a week for an eight person cabin at Blackwater Falls, Bluestone, Tygart Lake, Cacapon, Lost River and Watoga.

All of the lodges have dining facilities and restaurants are available at Bluestone, Holly River and Los River. All restaurants will be open by May 26.

Swimming facilities, at 13 of the state parks and four state forests will be opened for the season May 26.

New tent camping facilities also will be available this year at Babcock, Blackwater Falls, Holly River and North Bend State parks and at Cooper's Rock, Greenbrier and Kanawha state forests.

Tent camping sites had been available previously at Bluestone, Tygart Lake and Watoga state parks.

Arthur W. Taylor Is Guest Speaker

FROSTBURG — The Wayne W. Hill Chapter of the National Honor Society for Beall High School held its formal induction for new members recently.

A student must possess high standards of scholarship, leadership, service, character, and citizenship before he is considered for membership. Even then, only 10 per cent of the ninth grade and five per cent of the eighth grade can be inducted yearly.

Talks on these five qualifications were given by Luanne McCulloh, Brenda Frazier, Linda Brode, Susan Logue and Ivah Shope.

Ray Steiny, president, presented Mrs. Grace Bittner, sponsor of James E. Spitznas Chapter of the Senior Honor Society. Mrs. Bittner introduced Arthur W. Taylor, guest speaker. Mr. Taylor a former principal of Beall High School, spoke on, "Of What Value is an Honor Society in School."

Twenty-three ninth graders were inducted and nine eighth graders were taken into the society. They are Ann Bivins, Thomas Baucum, Alexis Conrad, John Current, Patricia Durr, James Eberly, Nick Edwards, Charlotte Haller, Patricia Hewitt, Donna Hillegass, David Jenkins, Linda Lancaster, Anita Layman, Norma Layman, Joseph Livingston, Glenn Michael, Stuart Richardson, Kenneth Robeson, John Scott, Gregory Smith, Edward Steele, Margaret Urbas, Rose Wade, Linda Bond, Linda Coakley, Charles Davidson, Carolyn Drew, Russell Keister, Jeanlyn Lewis, Donna Plummer, Debbie Rizer, and Mary Lynn Stevenson.

A reception for guests, parents of students, faculty and members of Senior Honor Society was held in the Home Economics room following the ceremony.

The sponsors for the Society are Miss Betty Ann Hanna and Miss Drucilla Schriener.

Martinsburg, Keyser Play Tonight For Class AAA Sectional Title

Roy Comer's Bulldogs Win 16 Straight

Potomac State Gym Game Site; Winner Goes To Wesleyan

Martinsburg High School, a 19-game winner will put a 16-game winning streak on the line when it faces Keyser High School's Golden Tornado tonight at 7:30 o'clock on the Potomac State College floor in a West Virginia Class AAA sectional basketball game.

The Section 6 winner will qualify for the Region 2 semi-finals set for next Friday at West Virginia Wesleyan College in Buckhannon.

Martinsburg has lost only one game in 20 outings this season and that was to South Hagerstown High School's Rebels, 63-56, at Hagerstown, January 5.

Coached By Comer

The Bulldogs, coached by Roy Comer, former Ridgeley High School athlete, have won the Tri-State League title and held two decisions each over Keyser, Fort Hill, Allegany, Waynesboro, Shepherdstown, North Hagerstown, Frederick, Westminster and Charles Town and split even with South Hagerstown, finalist in the Maryland District One Class AA tournament. The Bulldogs are rated 13th in West Virginia.

Martinsburg has beaten Keyser twice, 61-57 and 71-42 but Keyser is still hopeful of winning the big one.

Coach Estle "Eck" Miers' team owns an 18-3 record and wound up as co-champion of the Potomac Valley Conference with a 14-0 record. Keyser has won nine of its last ten games and enjoyed a 7-game victory streak between defeats at the hands of Martinsburg.

Beat Keyser Last Year
Last season under Coach George Whitacre the Bulldogs whipped Keyser for sectional honors, 60-56, in overtime, copped the regional at Morgantown by defeating Richmond and Weston and was stopped in the first game of the state tourney at Huntington by the host team. The 1961 Martinsburg team wound up with a 21-2 record, including a three-game sweep over Keyser. The Berkeley countians have won their last six games from Keyser, including the 1960 series final.

Officials for tonight's game will be Floyd "Pete" Elliott and Charles Lattimer.

Market Closes Irregular In Wake Of Profit-Taking

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks wandered aimlessly Friday, rising slightly at the outset, then succumbing to a round of pre-week end profit-taking in the final hours.

The Dow-Jones industrial average slipped 0.81 and Standard & Poor's 500 stock index declined 0.04. Trading amounted to 2,980,000 shares compared with 2,960,000 on Thursday.

A total of 1,275 issues changed hands, 543 advancing, 36 to new lows, and 469 declining.

In the autos, Chrysler shaded 1 1/2 and Checker Motors added 1/2. General Motors dropped 1/2 in further reaction to a decree that DuPont give up its $3.4 billion stock interest in GM for its part, DuPont lost 1/2.

Also in the chemicals, Allied lost 1/2 and Dow 1/4. Steels were narrowly mixed.

D-J rails lost 0.19 reflecting a point drop in N.Y., Chicago, & St. Louis. Utilities were up 1/8.

General Motors topped the most active list on a turnover of 66,700. This was followed by Royal Dutch, up 1/8, Libby McNeill & Libby up 1/4; American Motors up 1/4 and Benguet unchanged.

ABL, Union Agree On Contract

One-Day Strike Ends As Meeting Brings Settlement

Representatives of Local 261, International Chemical Workers Union, and Hercules Powder Company, last night reached an agreement on a new contract.

The agreement, reached at 11:30 p. m., ended a strike which was called at the defense plant Thursday at midnight as a two-year contract expired.

Following the agreement, the company and union issued the following joint statement:

"Representatives of Local 261, International Chemical Workers Union, and Hercules Powder Company tonight announced that they had reached an agreement on a new contract, subject to ratification by the union membership. No disclosure was made of the terms of the new contract.

John Mangus, president of Local 261, and John C. Foster, ABL manager said "We are conscious of the important part ABL plays in the nation's defense efforts and we are pleased we have been able to reach a quick and amicable agreement."

Last night's lengthy meeting was arranged by James A. Holden, federal conciliator.

He said he was pleased with the manner in which the parties cooperated in working out an agreement.

The strike was called after agreement could not be reached between the negotiators, who have been meeting since January 22.

Issues Statement

In a statement issued yesterday, John W. Mangus, president, and Robert H. Martin, vice president, of Local 261, said the union was "forced to take the drastic action of striking ABL." It is regrettable, the union leaders said, "but under the circumstances there was no alternative."

In explaining the reason for calling the strike, the union officials said:

"For many years another plant of the Hercules Powder Company has been enjoying the benefits of company-paid Blue Cross, Blue Shield Hospitalization and Surgical Service.

"The union membership at ABL feels that it should enjoy the same privilege.

"In a last-minute effort to avoid the strike, the union reluctantly dropped other demands which the membership had directed the committee to seek, notwithstanding the numerous concessions made previously on other proposals.

Ready To Talk

"Due to the economic warfare and the vital importance we play in national defense, the union committee is ready to meet at any time in order to make another effort to reach an agreement to take back to the membership for ratification.

"It may also be noted that the union with only one hour to go last night until the deadline, cut the remaining big issue in half, but to no avail.

"It is sincerely hoped that an amicable settlement can be reached as early as possible," the union spokesmen said.

Foster Statement

John C. Foster, ABL manager, said, "I sincerely regret that we have been unable to reach agreement on a new contract which has been offered to the union.

"A strike is not a matter to be used indifferently by any of us—its economic effect is far reaching. It is felt not only to the employee and his family but the community and the nation itself."

Agreement had been reached by the union and the company on all issues except increased benefits under Blue Cross. The company agreed to continuing payments of the individual monthly premium of the employee, ABL said.

Mr. Foster pointed out that agreement had been reached on a general wage increase, an improved pension plan, substantial wage increases in certain job classifications, improved insurance benefits and other items.

Very Generous

Mr. Foster added, "I firmly believe the new contract which we offered to employees was a very generous one and that it will benefit all concerned."

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Clites, Jersey City, N. J., announce the birth of a son Monday in a hospital in Belleville, N. J. The mother is the former Nina Kincaid, daughter of Mrs. Louise Kincaid, Ridgeley. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Samuel W. Clites, 957 Glenwood Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Mellon, Coraopolis, Pa., announce the birth of a daughter there February 23. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mellon, Ridgeley.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Roy Crass, 118 Seymour Street, a son last night.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald J. Loibel, 413½ Washington Street, a son yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. McCartney, Westernport, a daughter Thursday.

Tawes' Mother Ill At Bedford After Stroke

CRISFIELD, Md. (AP)—Mrs. Alice Byrd Tawes, 92, mother of Gov. J. Millard Tawes, was reported in serious condition Friday night at a Pennsylvania hospital.

A. Wellington Tawes of Crisfield, brother of the governor, said Mrs. Alice Tawes had suffered a cerebral thrombosis Wednesday while she was visiting a daughter in Bedford, Pa.

Wellington said his mother was in "very serious" condition at the Bedford Memorial Hospital.

The hospital late last night said Mrs. Tawes was "critical."

Four Churches Gets Bequests From Estate

John Pedder, a retired employee of the Luke Mill of West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company who died February 15, left a total of about $9,600 to four different churches, according to his will which was probated yesterday in Allegany County Orphans Court.

Mr. Pedder, who was in charge of the bleach plant at Luke when he retired in 1937, was an 84-year-old resident of 419 Beall Street at the time of his death.

He bequeathed $4,000 each to Emmanuel Episcopal Church and St. James Episcopal Church, Westernport. A native of England, he also left 1,000 pounds each (about $2,800) to St. Luke's Farnworth Parish Church and St. Ambrose Parish Church, Halton View, both of Widnes, Lancashire, England. They are both Anglican churches.

In addition Mr. Pedder left cash bequests to 20 different English relatives, including two sisters, a brother, a sister-in-law, four nephews, five nieces, four cousins and three relatives of cousins. A cash bequest also was left to Miss Helen Wiseman of Keyser.

All the rest of his estate was left equally to his brother, Harry, and sister, Dora, with whom he resided on Beall Street. The First National Bank and Trust Company qualified as executor under a $7,500 bond. The will was dated March 25, 1953.

Also probated yesterday was the will of Mrs. Jessie Arendes, who was a 78-year-old resident of 650 Washington Street when she died February 23. Her husband, Philip J. Arendes, the sole beneficiary, was named executor of the estate. The will was dated May 8, 1957.

The will of Robert Lee Settle, who was a 68-year-old resident of 29 Elder Street when he died February 18, also was probated. All of his personal property and his house at 29 Elder Street were left to a daughter, Miss Paula Elmore Settle, who qualified as executrix under a $500 bond.

All the rest of his estate was left equally to his three sons and seven daughters. The will was dated June 7, 1957.

Women Hurt In Collision On Route 40

Two women were hospitalized yesterday afternoon following a two-car collision on U. S. Route 40, 26 miles east of Cumberland. Admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital were Mrs. Shirley J. Collins, 26, of Oakland, and Mrs. Gladys L. Crawford, 62, of RFD 1, Artemas, Pa.

The hospital said Mrs. Collins received a possible fracture of her right wrist and multiple lacerations, but was reported in "good" condition. Mrs. Crawford sustained a possible fractured pelvis and was reported in "satisfactory" condition.

Trooper John W. McFarland said the accident occurred about 12:20 p. m. when a car operated by Mrs. Crawford veered across the highway and struck another car operated by Daisy J. Alexander, 36, of Oakland, who also was taken to Sacred Heart Hospital where she was treated and released.

Mrs. Collins was a passenger in the Alexander vehicle. Trooper McFarland said.

Over 100 Attend Y Youth Classes

Benjamin F. Haines, YMCA program director, announced that over 100 children are participating in the various Saturday educational classes at the Y, besides others who are turning out for gym and swimming instruction periods.

Classes offered on Saturday are Little Theater group, 11:30 a. m.; girls' knitting and crocheting class, 1:30 p. m.; boys' glee club, 2:30 p. m. and a children's remedial reading class, meeting hourly from 9 a. m. until 4 p. m.

Plans for the near future include a children's class for ages 9 to 12 in rockets and space exploration, and a children's art class, primarily directed at sketching for youngsters.

Further information about the classes may be had by calling the YMCA.

Congressional Race Begins

filing fee at the office of the Secretary of State in Annapolis. At right, former Rep. Foley poses after filing as a candidate for the Democratic nomination to oppose Mr. Mathias. Two other Democrats, Sidney Silverman and John H. Douglas, also have filed.

DAVID J. WILLIAMS

Former Member Of House Files For Full Term

Among the 11 candidates who filed yesterday with the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors was David J. Williams, 54, of Midland, who seeks election to the House of Delegates in which he formerly served by appointment, subject to the May 15 Republican primary.

Those who had not previously announced, who filed yesterday at the County House, include James R. Birmingham, Mt. Savage, Democrat for county commissioner; Samuel T. Weatherholt, 322 Avirett Avenue, Democrat for Orphans Court judge, and Mrs. Clarabelle Chaney Kenney, 96 West Main Street, Frostburg, for the Democratic State Central Committee.

Others filing yesterday included John J. Long, this city; John J. Rowan, LaVale, and John T. Mason, Cresaptown, all Democrats for county commissioners; J. Glenn Beall Jr., Frostburg, Republican for House of Delegates; Leo Fred Dean, Frostburg, for Republican State Central Committee; James S. Getty, Lonaconing, Republican for state's attorney; and Joseph C. Stuckey, LaVale, Republican for county commissioner.

59 Candidates File

Some 59 candidates have filed so far. 36 Republicans and 23 Democrats. The GOP candidates include 10 for House of Delegates, seven for county commissioners, six each for Orphans Court judges and State Central Committee, two for State Senate and one each for register of wills, sheriff, clerk of Circuit Court, county treasurer and state's attorney. The Democrat candidates include 11 for State Central Committee, six for county commissioners, three for House of Delegates, two for Orphans Court judges, and one for sheriff.

Mr. Williams, who has been town clerk of Midland since 1960, was appointed to the House of Delegates in 1958 to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Samuel Berry of Westernport. He served in the regular 30-day session that year and through two special sessions. He gained the Republican nomination in May 1958 but was defeated by a narrow margin in November.

The former delegate pointed out yesterday that during the 1959 session he voted with the majority in overriding Governor Theodore R. McKeldin's veto of a teacher salary increase. That same year he voted for the 15-year roads program which will result in improvements to U. S. Route 40 and State Route 36. He said he is concerned with the county's loss of population in the 1950 decade and hopes to help in attracting new industry to improve the economic well-being of this county.

Born In Shaft

Born in Shaft, he has lived in Midland the past 40 years. He is a member of the Midland Volunteer Fire Company, Georges Creek Valley Lodge, A.F. & A.M., is a past patron of Martha Washington Chapter 10, Order of the Eastern Star; president of the Midland Medical Center; vice president-elect of the Past Mat-

Wives Of Eight Senators Are On Payrolls

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The wives of eight senators and five delegates are on the legislative payroll this session, according to records at the comptroller's office.

Most of them are drawing $12 a day for the 30-day session, Saturdays and Sundays included, in the capacity of stenographers or committee clerks. Such jobs amount to $360 for a 30-day session and $1,080 for a 90-day session.

The question became a public issue last month when Mrs. John M. Whitmore, wife of an Anne Arundel delegate, lost her job as a secretary to the Senate Finance Committee.

She charged it was at the instigation of Sen. Louis N. Phipps, who is being opposed for re-election by her husband. Phipps said the real issue was "nepotism" and added: "Mrs. Whitmore was on the public payroll because her politician husband arranged it."

Work For Husbands

She is working this session as secretary to the vice chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Eight of the 29 senators have their wives on the payroll: Sens. Walter B. Dorsey, D-St. Marys, Bernard I. Gonder, D-Garrett, Harry R. Hughes, D-Caroline, Joseph V. Mach, D-Balto 2nd, John Clarence North, D-Talbot, Harry T. Phoebe, R-Somerset, John L. Sanford, D-Worcester, and Charles M. See, R-Allegany.

All are personal secretaries to their husbands except Mrs. See, who performs the unusual service of reading clerk. Sen. See is blind. A similar service is performed in the House by Mrs. Clifton O. Virts for her husband, a delegate from Frederick County.

Delegates don't rate individual secretaries but use the services of a secretarial pool. Other delegates whose wives are working at this session are Wilbur W. Magin, D-Carroll, Fred B. Driscoll, R-Allegany and Murray Abramson, D-Balto 4th.

Several of the legislators said they did not put their wives on the payroll until it became clear that it was difficult to get trained help for the short periods of time and amount of pay involved.

Senators Comment

Some other comments: Sen. Phoebe: "We don't consider that money that my wife makes as ours. We use it to entertain folks that visit from Somerset County."

Sen. Hughes: "I didn't have her on the payroll at first, but I found it is customary. I like to have someone I can trust completely and someone who is competent to do the work. She can do it."

Sen. Sanford: "I don't see anything wrong with it. I'd rather have someone here I can depend on than someone up here spying on me."

Hi-Y Council To Meet

The Allegany County Hi-Y-Tri-Hi-Y Council will meet Sunday at 2:30 p. m. at Allegany High School, not at Central YMCA as previously announced.

McKendree Methodist To Observe Anniversary

McKendree Methodist Church, 229 North Centre Street, will hold a special anniversary service tomorrow at the 11 a. m. worship service.

John Trimble will be master of ceremonies and will read a history of the church. Highlights of the history of the congregation will be related by John Gordon.

Music will feature old time hymns by the choir, including common leaders selected from hymnals used during the early days of the congregation.

Plans call for using a pedal organ, which was used during the early history of the church, to provide music for the service.

L. FRED DEAN

Frostburg Man Candidate For Committee Post

Leo Fred Dean, Frostburg businessman, has filed as a candidate for the Allegany County Republican State Central Committee.

Mr. Dean, who operates Dean's Jewelry Service on Main Street in Frostburg, has been active in Frostburg civic and fraternal activities.

He is a past worshipful master of Mountain Lodge 99, AF&M; and is a member of the York Rite Bodies, Ali Ghan Shrine Temple, Frostburg Lodge 470, BPO Elks and Farrady Post 24, American Legion.

He belongs to Frostburg Methodist Church, Eckhart Square Circle Club, the Frostburg Merchants Association and Maplehurst Country Club, of which he is a past president.

He was co-chairman of the first business section drive in Frostburg for the County United Fund and also has participated in various community fund raising campaigns.

A graduate watchmaker, he is a native of Eckhart and a graduate of Beall High School. He and his wife, Dolly, reside at 90 Braddock Street.

Some Hepatitis Cases Reported In This Area

Dr. Martin M. Rothstein, acting assistant deputy state health officer, for Allegany County, said yesterday that although some cases of infectious hepatitis have been reported in this area, it is by no means of epidemic proportions.

Increasing numbers of hepatitis cases were reported throughout the nation this past year, Dr. Rothstein said. In this particular area, cases reported are consistent with, but not above, the average increase in the rate of incidence of the disease, he added.

Infectious hepatitis is one of the common contagious diseases. It is caused by a virus and is spread mainly from person to person. The disease may sometimes be transmitted through water or food that has been contaminated by the patient. Thoroughly cooked foods and clean, tested water are safe.

The severity of symptoms is dependent upon age, although in the majority of cases infectious hepatitis is a mild disease. Complete recovery without relapse is usual. The generally accepted treatment for hepatitis is bed rest and nutritious food as prescribed by a physician. Resuming normal activity too soon may cause a relapse.

At this time there are no general immunization methods available for the prevention of hepatitis. Once cases have been diagnosed, prevention of further spread can be accomplished to a considerable degree by maintaining a high standard of cleanliness, both by the patient and by the persons in contact with him. In certain instances, the family physician may want to use gamma globulin to control the spread of the disease among household contacts of the patients.

Sloan To File For GOP Unit

Melvin Sloan of Lonaconing became the first member of the Allegany County Republican State Central Committee to announce for re-election last night.

Mr. Sloan was appointed to the committee in 1957 and was elected to a full four-year term in 1958. He has been the Republican member of the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverages License Commissioners since June 1959.

A 45-year-old native of Lonaconing, he is a son of the late Samuel and Elizabeth Sloan. He is married to the former Miss Audrey Muir and they have three children.

He was a founder and organizer of the Lonaconing Little League and has been president of the league since its founding in 1953. He also has been president of the Allegany County Bi-State Pony League for five years.

Mr. Sloan is a member of George's Creek Valley Lodge, A.F. & A.M.; Alvin C. Neat Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Lonaconing; was vice president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America in 1961; member of the Lonaconing Republican Club, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Lonaconing Health Center, and member of the Board of Sessions of the First Presbyterian Church of Lonaconing.

He attended the former Central High School and has been employed at Celanese for 29 years.

JOHN J. ROWAN

Rowan Seeks Re-election As Commissioner

John J. Rowan, president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, yesterday filed his candidacy for county commissioners subject to the Democratic primary May 15.

Mr. Rowan said he would not make any lengthy statement and will "run on my record" of the past three and a half years. He was elected in 1958 to a four-year term of office and along with Commissioner John T. Mason broke the Republican "stranglehold" on county offices. They were the first Democrats elected to county office in more than 40 years.

A retired engineer of the Amcelle plant of Celanese Fibers Company, he has been responsible mainly for the operation of the County Roads Department. During his tenure of office he has devoted many hours to this department and has personally checked many complaints or requests of residents on county roads.

Along with other members of the board he cites the progress made in various county activities. These include establishment of a county library system, inauguration of Allegany Community College, new detention quarters for juveniles, salary increases totaling $500 for school teachers, a total of $400 increase in the wages of county employees. He also cited a tax reduction last year.

Mr. Rowan said there are a number of projects in which the county is involved that he has a keen interest in aiding in accomplishing. Included is the proposed new Pinto bridge.

Mr. Rowan and his wife live in LaVale and he has been active in the various community organizations of that suburban area.

Mailman Reaches Hagerstown In Walk To Capital

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP)—Mailman Ed Kline had some company on the last four miles Friday of his all-day hike from Hancock to Hagerstown, in Western Maryland.

Kline, in uniform, is walking from Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, to Washington to publicize a campaign for higher salaries by U.S. postmen.

Five Hagerstown mail carriers rode to Hagerstown, four miles west of here, and accompanied Kline by foot. The five were Tom Tricht, William Ward, Paul Bernard, Russ Weible, and Lowell Faith.

The group was met at the city line by Mayor Winslow Burhans and two city councilmen, William Baker and Francis Cordell.

Kline was treated to dinner by local postoffice employees. Now on the last laps of his 326-mile journey, the mailman plans to leave early Saturday for Frederick. He expects to reach Washington Monday.

Reapportioning Prospects Are Perking Up

Building Of Area Dams Is Favored

By GEORGE BOWEN
ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Prospects for passage of reapportionment by the Maryland House of Delegates, perked up Friday with all 36 of Baltimore City's votes ready to line up behind it.

The solid vote is contingent on a requirement that the boundary of the city's six districts be redrawn by 1974 to equalize the population in each.

This would assure that each district would at least keep its present six delegates. The existing disproportionate populations of the districts mean that some would lose delegates if the reapportionment plan in its present form were adopted.

This caused the six delegates in the 1st district and some in others to be against the plan.

The decision to vote as a bloc for reapportionment with compulsory redistricting was reached at a caucus of the city delegation after opponents had forced the proposal to remain at a standstill in the House for the third straight day.

River Resolution

The House also went on record in a resolution urging construction of dams and reservoirs in the north branch of the Potomac River as recommended by the U. S. Corps of Engineers.

It makes no mention of proposals impounding water in the lower part of the river which includes a controversial reservoir above Great Falls.

The resolution also omits an original statement that development of the Potomac's water resources should be entirely administered and financed by the federal government.

Accommodations Bill

The city delegation also voted by the narrow margin of 18-15 not to exempt Baltimore from a bill requiring equal service for Negroes in restaurants and hotels.

However, approximately half of the delegates will vote against the bill as a whole. The legislature is due to meet in special session next Friday to consider the public accommodations bill.

It was tabled for this regular session ending Thursday by moves to exempt several counties. Only laws of statewide application may be passed during the regular session, but it will be possible to exempt areas at the special session.

If Baltimore City were exempted, Gov. Tawes probably would have reconsidered calling the special session.

The two finance committees agreed Friday morning to start the budget moving Saturday. They have trimmed $1.5 million from the general fund appropriations of $275,500,000 submitted by Gov. Tawes.

Heavily Amended

The first Maryland regulation of contractors and salesmen in the home improvement business was on its way through the House.

There were 60 amendments to the home improvement bill before it was given tentative approval of the House. Contractors and salesmen repairing or improving dwellings will have to take out licenses and be subject to regulation of a commission.

One of the amendments eliminated provisions to pay four commissioners up to $5,000, a chairman $6,000 and an executive secretary $10,500 a year.

Other amendments eliminated swimming pool builders but added dealers in fallout shelters and exempted any jobs or sales costing less than $300.

Two bills benefitting state employees were passed by the House. They will fix a minimum wage of $1.25 an hour and double from five to 10 days the vacation for an employee with less than one year's service.

The House also sent to the Senate a bill requiring employers to pay women wages equal to men for doing comparable work.

It forwarded to the governor authority to close the Barrett School for Girls in Glen Burnie. All delinquent juvenile girls will be sent to Montrose in Baltimore County.

Situation Comedy Supply 'Enhanced'

'Life With Fodder'

NEW YORK (NEA)—The coming of the new family situation comedy show, "Room for One More," gives rise to a big question which troubles TV brass. Is there really room for one more?

Situation comedies are one of the most popular forms of TV entertainment. Whenever a new comedian or stage or film personality is considered for a TV series, the first suggestion is always a situation comedy built around a family.

1. The Hearthsides. This is a typical family next door. Mommy and Daddy hate each other. Dear old Dad has been arrested six times for disturbing the peace when he belted Mom with (a) a frying pan, (b) a saucepan, (c) a fresh mackerel, (d) a hockey stick, (e) copy of the federal budget, and (f) Junior. Suggested for the stars: Eddie Fisher and Debbie Reynolds.

2. Life With Fodder. A nice, rural affair, set in the farm country. The emphasis will be on the young son and his pet puma. The animal's name is Grrr, and he follows the boy to school every day and eats the teacher. It's tough on the town's educational budget, but it makes an appealing story. Suggested to play the boy: Mickey Rooney.

3. The Five of Us. This deals with a widow and her four daughters, bravely trying to make their way in a cruel world. The mother, who once sang at La Scala, now takes in laundry to make a living for her beautiful brood. The only trouble is she has no tub, so as to do the wash in a fish bowl. Hankies are OK, but sheets are a nuisance. Suggested for the lead: Zsa Zsa Gabor.

These, or reasonably accurate facsimiles, will all be on the home screen next fall. All you do is take an existing show, and twist it a bit. The TV brass need not worry; there will always be room for one more.

Coast-Coast Video Tidbits

EAST COAST: Although the pilot for the new Bob Banner hour-long series, "TV Tonight," starring Dennis Weaver as host was made recently in New York City, the rest of the series will be done on the West Coast . . . Eddy Hanson has been signed to do the music score for "Sentimental Journey," a documentary to be telecast in this month . . . Carol Burnett and Jesse White star in an upcoming teleplay of "The Twilight Zone." . . . "Bomb Aboard—Call the FBI," has been set as the title of the dramatic TV "special."

WEST COAST: Veteran film star Neil Hamilton, whose career dates back to silent picture days, makes a guest appearance in an upcoming episode of "Mister Ed." . . . "At This Very Moment," a one-hour, all-star entertainment program with Burt Lancaster as host, will be presented on the ABC-TV Network, Sunday, April 1, by the American Cancer Society. Primarily an entertainment show, it will also dramatize 25 years of progress in cancer control . . . Alex North will compose and conduct the music for the series devoted to the years of Franklin D. Roosevelt . . . Burt Kennedy will direct and write an upcoming episode of "Lawman." He often plays character roles on the Sunday night western series . . . E. W. Swackhamer, associate producer of "Hennessey," is taking on his first directing assignment with "Big Bertha" episode. Previous episodes this season were directed by Producer-star Jackie Cooper.

Barometer Shows Snow, But Dick Doesn't Believe

The day before Southern California experienced its first snow storm in ten years, Dick Crenna, Luke McCoy of "The Real McCoys," got mad at the barometer which hangs in his den.

"Throw this thing out," he told his wife, Penni. "It doesn't work—says we're in for snow!"

'Point Of Impact', New Adventure Series, Slated

Stories of the seven seas spiced with salty humor and jam-packed with bizarre adventures form the basis of a new series being planned for next season under the title of "Point of Impact." It is to be based on the novel of the same name, by Robert F. Mervish.

Alan Reed, the voice of Fred Flintstone, chortles that inside every fat woman is a skinny woman trying to get out!

Qualified Emcee Runs Debate Show

There's no debating the fact that Dr. James McBath, moderator of NBC-TV's new "Championship Debate" series, is thoroughly familiar with his subject.

"Championship Debate," broadcast Saturdays (12:30-1 p.m.), each week features two of the country's top college debate teams in verbal combat.

Dr. McBath, himself a championship debater, has been active in the debates since the eighth grade. He is now associate professor of speech and director of forensics at the University of Southern California, and also president of the American Forensic Association.

Judge Speaks Out

Parents should not unthinkingly gift their teenagers with a car or the keys to their car until the young people's school grades are commensurate with their ability, according to William Gwinn, presiding judge on "Day In Court."

Brought Us Rudy

Harry Salters, producer of "Yours for a Song," was responsible for bringing Rudy Vallee to radio in 1928. As a broadcasting musical director, Salters arranged for a remote pick-up of Vallee's band playing from the Heigh-Ho Club.

Champagne Lady Goes Through Exercises Daily

Champagne Lady Norma Zimmer of "The Lawrence Welk Show" claims: "I just love calisthenics!"
Good thing, too. Her athletic husband, Randy, puts Norma and their two boys, Ronny 13, and Mark 9, through their paces every morning. "It is Randy's belief," says Norma with just a trace of a twinkle, "that the family bends together, ends together."

Say "Pepsi, please!"
